Death of Edward Huban.

Edward Huban, one of the oldest settlers in this locality, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. C. Rosier, on Tuesday night about 12 o'clock, death being caused by paralysis. Mr. Huban has been ailing more or less for a number of years past, but was able to be about town much of the time until about a year ago, since which time he has been confined to the house about all the time, although able to be up and about. He was taken quite sick about five days ago and grew gradually worse until he passed quietly away. Deceased was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1839, and was consequently in his 83d year. Mr. Huban came to this country when a young man, and came to this part of the country in the early fifties, the exact date not known. During his early life he followed the profession of riverman and pilot and later on engaged in logging in various sections in this part of the country. He was a unique character and the stories he told of the conditions and happenings in this country in the early days were always full of interest to his listeners. He is survived by two daughters, they being Mrs. E. C. Rosier and Mrs. Anna Merrill, both of this city. The funeral will be held on Friday morning from the Catholic church, Rev. Wm. Reeling to conduct the services.

Biron-Wolfe.

Miss Dolores Biron of this city and Michael Wolfe of Hancock were married at St. Peter and Paul church in this city at 7 o'clock Monday morning, Rev. Father Reeling performing the ceremony. The attendants were Miss Hounylin Biron, sister of the bride, and Frank Wolfe, a brother of the groom. Immediately following the ceremony the bridal party and a few guests partook of a beautiful wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Stephen Snyder, and Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe left on the morning train for Plandish, where they will make their future home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Biron and has lived at Stevens Point for a number of years past and is a most estimable young lady, while the groom is a carpenter by trade.

To Automobile Owners.

—We want to call your attention to the New Garage, Repair and Supply Shop we have opened in the Krieger Machine Shop on Seventh avenue south, west side.

Since we are just starting up in business, we must dispense with fancy prices. We want customers and we feel that the only way to get them and to hold them is by reliable work and reasonable charges.

We therefore, ask for a trial and we feel satisfied that you will be astonished at our skillful work and moderate charges. Our Mr. Geo. Schmitt, who has charge of the auto repair work, has had years of experience and his work is guaranteed. GRAND RAPIDS AUTOMOBILE REPAIR AND SUPPLY COMPANY in Krieger's Machine Shop Bldg., Seventh Avenue South, West Side.

Must Serve Life Sentence.

John Dietz, the defender of Cannon dam, must spend the rest of his natural life in state prison. Such was the decision handed down by the supreme court on Tuesday after reviewing the testimony in the case.

Dietz conducted his own case, having refused to employ a lawyer, and this fact was emphasized in bringing the case before the supreme court.

Broke a Leg.

M. O. Potter had his right ankle broken on Monday while engaged in starting a gasoline engine on his place in the town of Oronoco.

He got his foot caught in the fly-wheel in some manner, injuring him quite severely. Mr. Potter was brought to this city and given surgical attendance and has since been getting along as well as can be expected.

Killed by a Fall.

Patrick Smith of Port Edwards was so badly injured on Monday by falling from a wagon that he died from his injuries that evening.

Many Delegates Present.

The Tenth district convention of the Federated Clubs is being held in this city at the present time, the sessions having started on Tuesday afternoon. There was also a session on Tuesday evening, as well as this morning, and this afternoon the time will be spent in a more frivolous manner, as the ladies will be given an auto ride which will take in some of the nice drives in this locality, going as far south as Nekoma, and up to Biron on the river road.

The gentlemen of the city kindly donated the use of their automobiles yesterday and today and all of the trains were met and the lady delegates taken to the homes where they were to be entertained.

Good programs including music and speaking had been prepared for all the sessions, and there was a good attendance both of the delegates from out of town and the ladies from this city.

The program on Tuesday afternoon was followed out as anticipated with the exception of the fact that Mrs. W. H. Crosby, state president of the Federation, was not able to be present, on account of sickness, and her paper was read by Mrs. B. H. Groggins. Following was the program:

Ushers—Mrs. G. O. Babcock and Mrs. E. B. Redford.

Press—Mrs. Emma Brundage and Mrs. O. K. Gibson.

The visiting ladies expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the manner in which they were entertained in the city, and the sessions were most pleasant from start to finish.

Opinions of Eminent Catholic Clergymen.

Rev. Thomas Scully, of Cambridgeport, says: "There are no duties or obligations attached to our American franchise that women are not capable of performing. For citizenship they possess all the patriotism, virtue and intelligence that the law requires, and a great deal more."

"Who, especially, are the women who demand for themselves and their sex this political equality? From my own observation, they are those whose standards of intelligence, morality and social position are the very highest. They are foremost in every good work for God and country, to help the orphan and widow, to aid the poor and comfort the sick. You will find such noble women, wives, mothers, daughters, in all our cities and towns, united and pioneering in their efforts for temperance, public decency and morality. I believe that the door of political freedom and equality, at which they are knocking louder and louder, should be opened to them. And why? In order that their special knowledge and practical experience in regard to their own sex and in regard to children may influence legislation for the physical, moral and social protection of girls, such as well as poor, and for guarding the child's natural home from every taint carry with them criminal poverty and disease."

"I know of no argument for refusing the suffrage to women that is not equally applicable to men. We are away behind other countries in this. These women have certain political rights, with results so satisfactory that many of the leading men in Church and State are now willing to grant them full citizenship. Cardinal Archbishop Vaughan has publicly stated that he is for it. Among the most learned ecclesiastics of our own country, not a few are pronounced in its favor. Educated men and women of the Catholic faith are everywhere now to be found favorably disposed toward it. It pleases me to say that Miss Jane Campbell, a Catholic, is president of the Philadelphia Woman Suffrage Association, the largest local suffrage society in the country. Again, something to be very proud of is the fact that the first woman on this side of the Atlantic who demanded the right to vote was a Catholic—Margaret Brent, of Maryland, on Jan. 21, 1777. The opposition to female suffrage is a matter of course. All great social and political reforms, as well as religious ones, have always been retarded by prejudices, customs and the old cry, 'Inopportune.' So it is with this. It is a battle—reason and justice opposed by senseless fears and selfish motives. The cause is just. It may be defeated today, but never conquered, and tomorrow it will be victorious."

"Farming in Europe."

Professor Olson of the Stevens Point Normal school leaves this summer for Europe, intending to spend several months studying conditions of agriculture and rural home life in different continental localities. What he sees and hears, he will write up for a number of newspapers in Wisconsin and Michigan. The articles will be edited by Prof. M. H. Jackson of the Wood County Normal, which in itself would be a sufficient guarantee that they will prove interesting to all.

The News has made arrangements with Messrs. Olson and Jackson so that these articles will be published in this paper. As Prof. Olson is an authority upon agricultural subjects and intends to make comparisons of old and new world conditions, the series will be awaited with much interest by the readers of The News.—Marchfield News.

Lynn-Saecker.

Miss Edith Lynn and L. A. Saecker, both of this city, will be married this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in the town of Port Edwards, Rev. M. B. Milne of the Baptist church to perform the ceremony.

Both of these young people are well and favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of M. H. Lynn, and has made her home in this city for a number of years past, being engaged in teaching music. The groom has been engaged in the upholstery business here for a number of years past, and has made many friends here during his residence in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Saecker will make their home in this city, and the Tribune unites with their many friends in extending congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

Fourth of July Meeting.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Fourth of July celebration committee, Mayor Cohen announces, on Wednesday evening, May 15th, at the west side city hall. Eight o'clock sharp. Those interested in making a success of the celebration of the nation's holiday should make it a point to be present.

Lecture at Baptist Church.

Engene W. Chafin, L. L. B., will lecture at the Baptist church on Monday, May 20th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. Chafin was prohibition candidate for president in 1908, and is one of the most distinguished orators in the country.

—Remember the administrator's sale of the Max Steinberg stock will continue until the entire stock is sold out.

Investing in Real Estate.

John E. Daly returned on Friday from Port Arthur and Port William, where he had been in company with T. A. Taylor for several days. Messrs. Daly and Taylor were so taken with the opportunities in that country that they invested in some real estate there, as may be seen from the following item, which is taken from the Port William Daily Times Journal of May 4th:

"Port William real estate in three parcels to the aggregate value of more than $75,000 was sold today through the agency of Young & Lillis to T. A. Taylor and John E. Daly, of Grand Rapids, Wis."

"The parcels involved in the deals are as follows: 53 feet at the corner of South Main and Donald streets for $25,000; 82 feet at the corner of Franklin street and Victoria avenue, and 190 feet of trackage on the industrial spur at the corner of Syndicate avenue and Mary street."

"The gentlemen had had the progress of Port William under observation for some time and their investments of today apply and conclusively indicate their opinion of the present secure position of the city and of its future development."

"Special interest attaches to the May street property involved in the purchase. It is the corner immediately beyond the Leland hotel. In 1909, by making a special effort, M. O. Young induced Wm. Gilmore to pay $1000 for it. Refusing several times to sell it, Mr. Gilmore gave a practical demonstration of the wisdom of buying Port William property and holding it for a few years. He has had the use of it for about a dozen years and the revenues have amounted to several times the original cost to him."

"In closing the deals, the non-resident investors remarked that the local citizens were evidently just beginning to realize something of the importance of Port William to the commercial world. They will probably make additional investments before leaving the land of Canadian lake navigation."

Mr. Daly left again on Sunday for Port William to look after his interests, having closed his trip there temporarily during his absence.

Death of Arvilla Clairmont.

Mr. Ador Clairmont (nee Arvilla Clairmont), died at Butte, Montana, on Saturday last as the result of pulmonary tuberculosis, a disease which she had been suffering from for several months.

Mrs. Clairmont had been taken to Idaho some time ago with the hope of improving her health, but without any favorable result, and she was on her way home when her death occurred.

Mrs. Clairmont was 32 years of age and is survived by her husband and two children.

Deceased was born and reared in this city and for several years was employed as compositor in the Tribune office, and was of a most happy disposition. After her marriage she removed to Minneapolis where she has since resided. She has a large number of friends in this city who will unite with the Tribune in extending to the sorrowing family the most heartfelt sympathy.

The remains were taken to Minneapolis for burial.

Witter House Sold.

D. J. Gerow and A. J. Stevens have purchased from I. J. Waggoner the furnishings and lease of the Witter House, and took possession of the place last week.

Messrs. Gerow and Stevens are men who have had considerable experience in the hotel business, and it is reported that they intend to fix the place up and make a two dollar a day hotel of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Waggoner will return to Janesville their former home, to reside. During their stay here they have made many friends who will be sorry to have them leave, but will wish them success in their new location.

Fable of the Man Who Was Blessed With an Inventive Turn of Mind.

Once upon a time there was a Guy who had been told in his youth that he was a Genius, and having absorbed the idea that a genius was not supposed to do much but sit around and look wise and invent things, he had rather a hard time of it.

When his wife used to ask him to carry in an armful of wood he seldom got further than the back shed, when an idea for a new wood carrier would strike him and he immediately got busy inventing a proposition that could be rigged up so that all you had to do would be to touch a button, and the machine would do the work.

He never got it finished in time to carry in the wood, however, so his wife did that part of it.

He also invented a machine that would rock the cradle and churn the butter at the same time, so that all his wife had to do was to sit in the parlor and pull a string occasionally, while he went down to the grocery and checked tubers and split at the flower they crawled around on the sidewalk.

The thing failed to work just right, however, and the old lady used to hold the baby in her lap and work the churn in the usual way.

Then he was unable to do anything for several weeks, he was so busy thinking out the details for a new electric auto milkster. He was so busy on it that he didn't even have time to do the milking.

It was one of the most complicated things that he had yet turned his attention to, but he knew that when he got it completed it was going to be one of the greatest inventions of the age.

At last he got it finished, and there was only one trouble with it. It wouldn't work. At last reports his wife was still doing the milking.

This last invention took so much of his energy that he wasn't able to do any real work for quite awhile, but he managed to keep his membership in good standing at the village store where the Knights of Rest held their daily sessions.

The next big thing that he turned his attention to was a patent car coupler. He had gotten up so many small things that he felt it was about time for him to do something that would put him on May street so that he would not be compelled to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow in his old age.

During the car-coupler stage he had to do a heap of thinking, and it was sometimes days at a time that he did not have time to even do the chores about the house.

At last he got it completed and in order to protect his right he got one of the local attorneys to apply for a patent.

It was somewhat painful to find that there had already been patents taken out on 3,265,121 different kinds of car couplers, and that his patent infringed on 1,318 of them.

It naturally took him some little time to catch his breath after receiving such a stunning blow in the solar plexus of his inventive ability, but he got his wind at last.

Then he invented a rigging for cleaning windows without work, a mouse trap that would catch all the mice in a house without being reset, a puzzle to amuse the children, a patent dish washer, a monkey wrench that was a combination of 150 different tools, a potato peeler, an automobile tire that had no rubber or wind in it, a patent olive and several other small articles.

The last word of him he was working on a perpetual motion machine and had it so it would almost run. When you turned it by hand it did work fine, but it wouldn't quite go of its own accord, but he was expecting to get this part of it almost any time.

His wife was still doing her own work and supporting the family most of the time.

Moral—Good hard manual labor often puts more flour in the bin than an inventive turn of mind.

Opinions of Eminent Catholic Clergymen.

Rev. Thomas Scully, of Cambridgeport, says: "There are no duties or obligations attached to our American franchise that women are not capable of performing. For citizenship they possess all the patriotism, virtue and intelligence that the law requires, and a great deal more."

"Who, especially, are the women who demand for themselves and their sex this political equality? From my own observation, they are those whose standards of intelligence, morality and social position are the very highest. They are foremost in every good work for God and country, to help the orphan and widow, to aid the poor and comfort the sick. You will find such noble women, wives, mothers, daughters, in all our cities and towns, united and unceasing in their efforts for temperance, public decency and morality. I believe that the door of political freedom and equality, at which they are knocking louder and louder, should be opened to them. And why? In order that their special knowledge and practical experience in regard to children may influence legislation for the physical, moral and social protection of girls, as well as poor, and for guarding the child's natural home from evils that carry with them criminal poverty and disease."

"I know of no argument for refusing the suffrage to women that is not equally applicable to men. We are away behind other countries in this. These women have certain political rights, with results so satisfactory that many of the leading men in Church and State are now willing to grant them full citizenship. Cardinal Archbishop Vaughan has publicly stated that he is for it. Among the most learned ecclesiastics of our own country, not a few are pronounced in its favor. Educated men and women of the Catholic faith are everywhere now to be found favorably disposed toward it. It pleases me to say that Miss Jane Campbell, a Catholic, is president of the Philadelphia Woman Suffrage Association, the largest local suffrage society in the country. Again, something to be very proud of is the fact that the first woman on this side of the Atlantic who demanded the right to vote was a Catholic—Margaret Brent, of Maryland, on Jan. 21, 1747. The opposition to female suffrage is a matter of course. All great social and political reforms, as well as religious ones, have always been resisted by prejudices, customs and the old cry, 'Inopportuna.' So it is with this. It is a battle—reason and justice opposed by senseless fears and selfish motives. The cause is just. It may be defeated today, but never conquered, and tomorrow it will be victorious."

"Farming in Europe."

Professor Olson of the Stevens Point Normal school leaves this morning for Europe, intending to spend several months studying conditions of agriculture and rural home life in different continental localities. What he sees and hears, he will "write up" for a number of newspapers in Wisconsin and Michigan. The articles will be edited by Prof. M. H. Jackson of the Wood County Normal, which in itself would be a sufficient guarantee that they will prove interesting to all.

The News has made arrangements with Messrs. Olson and Jackson so that these articles will be published in this paper. As Prof. Olson is an authority upon agricultural subjects and intends to make comparisons of old and new world conditions, the series will be awaited with much interest by the readers of The News.—Marshfield News.

The Tribune has also made arrangements to run the articles referred to above and they should prove of interest to everybody who cares to note the impressions made on an American by foreign methods.

Lynn-Saecker.

Miss Edith Lynn and H. A. Saecker, both of this city, will be married this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in the town of Port Edwards, Rev. M. B. Milne of the Baptist church to perform the ceremony.

Both of these young people are well and favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of M. H. Lynn, and has made her home in this city for a number of years past, being engaged in teaching music. The groom has been engaged in the upholstering business here for a number of years past, and has made many friends here during his residence in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Saecker will make their home in this city, and the Tribune unites with their many friends in extending congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

Fourth of July Meeting.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Fourth of July celebration committee, Mayor Cohen announces, on Wednesday evening, May 15th, at the west side city hall. Eight o'clock sharp. Those interested in making a success of the celebration of the nation's holiday should make it a point to be present.

Lecture at Baptist Church.

Engene W. Chaffin, L. L. B., will lecture at the Baptist church on Monday, May 20th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Chaffin was prohibition candidate for president in 1908, and is one of the most distinguished orators in the country.

Remember the administrator's sale of the Max Steinberg stock will continue until the entire stock is sold out.

Investing in Real Estate.

John E. Daly returned on Friday from Port Arthur and Port William, where he had been in company with T. A. Taylor for several days. Messrs. Daly and Taylor were so taken with the opportunities in that country that they invested in some real estate there, as may be seen from the following item, which is taken from the Port William Daily Times Journal of May 11th:

"Port William real estate in three parcels to the aggregate value of more than $75,000 was sold today through the agency of Young & Lillie to T. A. Taylor and John E. Daly, of Grand Rapids, Wis."

"The parcels involved in the deals are as follows: 63 feet at the corner of South May and Donald streets for $25,000; 82 feet at the corner of Franklin street and Victoria avenue, and 100 feet of trackage on the industrial spur at the corner of Syndicate avenue and Mary street."

"The gentlemen had had the progress of Port William under observation for some time and their investments of today aptly and conclusively indicate their opinion of the present secure position of the city and of its future development."

"Special interest attaches to the May street property involved in the purchase. It is the corner immediately beyond the Leland hotel. In 1900, by making a special effort, S. O. Young induced Wm. Gilmour to pay $1000 for it. Refusing several flatly offers, Mr. Gilmour gave a practical demonstration of the wisdom of buying Port William property and holding it for a few years. He has had the use of it for about a dozen years and the revenues have amounted to several times the original cost to him."

"In closing the deals, the non-resident investors remarked that the local citizens were evidently just beginning to realize something of the importance of Port William to the commercial world. They will probably make additional investments before leaving the head of Canadian lake navigation."

Death of Arvilla Clairmont.

Mrs. Ador Clairmont (nee Arvilla Demaree), died at Butte, Montana, on Saturday last as the result of pulmonary tuberculosis, a disease which she had been suffering from for several months. Mrs. Clairmont had been taken to Idaho some time ago with the hope of improving her health, but without any favorable result, and she was on her way home when her death occurred.

Mrs. Clairmont was 32 years of age and is survived by her husband and two children.

Deceased was born and reared in this city and for several years was employed as a compositor in the Tribune office, and was of a most happy disposition. After her marriage she removed to Minneapolis where she has since resided. She has a large number of friends in this city who will unite with the Tribune in extending to the sorrowing family the most heartfelt sympathy. The remains were taken to Minneapolis for burial.

Witter House Sold.

D. J. Gerow and A. J. Stevens have purchased from L. J. Waggoner the furnishings and lease of the Witter House, and took possession of the place last week.

Messrs. Gerow and Stevens are men who have had considerable experience in the hotel business, and it is reported that they intend to fix the place up and make a two dollar a day hotel of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Waggoner will return to Janesville their former home, to reside. During their stay here they have made many friends who will be sorry to have them leave, but will wish them success in their new location.

Fable of the Man Who Was Blessed With an Inventive Turn of Mind.

Once upon a time there was a Guy who had been told in his youth that he was a Genius, and having absorbed the idea that a genius was not supposed to do much but sit around and look wise and invent things, he had rather a hard time of it.

When his wife used to ask him to carry in an armful of wood he seldom got further than the back shed, when an idea for a new wood carrier would strike him and he immediately got busy inventing a proposition that could be rigged up so that all you had to do would be to touch a button, and the machine would do the rest.

He never got it finished in time to carry in the wood, however, so his wife did that part of it.

He also invented a machine that would Rook the cradle and churn the Butter at the same time, so that all his wife had to do was to sit in the parlor and Pull a string occasionally, while he went down to the grocery and Chopped tobacco and Spat at the flies as they crawled around on the sidewalk.

The thing failed to work just Right, however, and the old lady used to hold the baby in her lap and Work the churn in the usual way.

Then he was unable to do anything for several weeks, he was so busy thinking out the Details for a new electric cow milker. He was so busy on it that he didn't even have time to do the milking.

It was one of the most Complicated things that he had yet turned his Attention to, but he knew that when he got it completed it was going to be one of the greatest inventions of the age.

At last he got it finished, and there was only one trouble with it. It wouldn't Work. At last reports his wife was still doing the milking.

This last invention took so much of his energy that he wasn't able to do any real Work for quite awhile, but he managed to keep his membership in good Standing at the village store where the Knights of Rest held their daily sessions.

The next Big thing that he turned his Attention to was a patent car coupler. He had gotten up so many small things that he felt it was about time for him to do something that would put him on Easy street so that he would not be compelled to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow in his old age.

During the car-coupler stage he had to do a heap of thinking, and it was sometimes days at a time that he did not have time to even do the Chores about the house.

At last he got it Completed and in order to protect his right he got one of the local Attorneys to apply for a patent.

He was somewhat Pained to find that there had already been patents taken out on 3,365,121 different kinds of car Couplers, and that his patent infringed on 1,378 of them.

It naturally took him some little time to Catch his breath after Recovering such a stunning blow in the solar plexus of his inventive ability, but he got his wind at last.

Then he invented a rigging for Cleaning windows without work, a mouse trap that would Catch all the mice in a house without being Reset, a puzzle to Amuse the children, a patent Dish washer, a monkey wrench that was a Combination of 186 different tools, a potato peeler, an automobile tire that had no rubber or wind in it, a patent Clevis and several other small articles.

The last heard of him he was working on a Perpetual motion machine and had it so it would almost run. When you turned it by hand it did work fine, but it wouldn't quite go of its own accord, but he was expecting to get this part of it almost any time.

His wife was still doing her own Work and supporting the family Most of the time.

Moral—Good hard manual labor often puts more flour in the Bin than an inventive turn of mind.

Death of Edward Huban.

Edward Huban, one of the oldest settlers in this locality, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. C. Rosier, on Tuesday night about 12 o'clock, death being caused by paralysis.

Mr. Huban has been ailing more or less for a number of years past, but was able to be about town much of the time until about a year ago, since which time he has been confined to the home about all the time, although able to be up and about. He was taken quite sick about five days ago and grew gradually worse until he passed quietly away.

Deceased was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1829, and was consequently in his 83d year. Mr. Huban came to this country when a young man, and came to this part of the country in the early fifties, the exact date not known.

During his early life he followed the profession of riverman and pilot and later on engaged in logging in various sections in this part of the country. He was a unique character and the stories he told of the conditions and happenings in this country in the early days were always full of interest to his listeners.

He is survived by two daughters, they being Mrs. E. C. Rosier and Mrs. Anna Merrill, both of this city. The funeral will be held on Friday morning from the Catholic church, Rev. Wm. Reding to conduct the services.

Biron-Wolfe.

Miss Delema Biron of this city and Michael Wolfe of Hancock were married at St. Peter and Paul church in this city at 7 o'clock Monday morning, Rev. Father Reding performing the ceremony. The attendants were Miss Bonnylin Biron, sister of the bride, and Frank Wolfe, a brother of the groom. Immediately following the ceremony the bride and groom were taken to the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Stephen Snyder, and Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe left on the morning train for Friendship, where they will make their future home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Biron and has lived at Stevens Point for a number of years past and is a most estimable young lady, while the groom is a carpenter by trade.

To Automobile Owners.

Must Serve Life Sentence.

John Dietz, the defender of Cameron clan, must spend the rest of his natural life in state prison.

Such was the decision handed down by the supreme court on Tuesday after reviewing the testimony in the case.

Dietz conducted his own case, having refused to employ a lawyer, and this fact was emphasized in bringing the case before the supreme court.

Broke a Leg.

M. O. Potter had his right ankle broken on Monday while engaged in starting a gasoline engine on his place in the town of Cranmore.

He got his foot caught in the fly-wheel in some manner, injuring him quite severely. Mr. Potter was brought to this city and given surgical attendance and has since been getting along as well as can be expected.

Killed by a Fall.

Patrick Smith of Port Edwards was so badly injured on Monday by falling from a wagon that he died from his injuries that evening.

Many Delegates Present.

The Tenth district convention of the Federated Clubs is being held in this city at the present time, the sessions having started on Tuesday afternoon. There was also a session on Tuesday evening, as well as this morning, and this afternoon the time will be spent in a more frivolous manner, as the ladies will be given an auto ride which will take in some of the nice drives in this locality, going as far south as Nekoma, and up to Biron on the river road.

The gentlemen of the city kindly donated the use of their automobiles yesterday and today and all of the drivers were met and the lady delegates taken to the homes where they were to be entertained.

Good programs including music and speaking had been prepared for all the sessions, and there was a good attendance both of the delegates from out of town and the ladies from this city.

The program on Tuesday afternoon was followed out as anticipated with the exception of the fact that Mrs. W. H. Crosby, state president of the Federation, was not able to be present, on account of sickness, and her paper was read by Mrs. B. R. Goggin.

Following was the program:

Opinions of Eminent Catholic Clergymen.

"Who, especially, are the women who demand for themselves and their sex this political equality? From my own observation, they are those whose standards of intelligence, morality and social position are the very highest. They are foremost in every good work for God and country, to help the orphan and widow, to aid the poor and comfort the sick. You will find such noble women, wives, mothers, daughters, in all our cities and towns, united and unceasing in their efforts for temperance, public decency and morality. I believe that the door of political freedom and equality, at which they are knocking louder and louder, should be opened to them. And why? In order that their special knowledge and practical experience in regard to their own sex and in regard to children may influence legislation for the physical, moral and social protection of girls, rich as well as poor, and for guarding the child's natural home from evils that carry with them criminal poverty and disease."

"I know of no argument for refusing the suffrage to women that is not equally applicable to men. We are away behind other countries in this. These women have certain political rights, with results so satisfactory that many of the leading men in Church and State are now willing to grant them full citizenship. Cardinal Archbishop Vaughan has publicly stated that he is for it. Among the most learned ecclesiastics of our own country, not a few are pronounced in its favor. Educated men and women of the Catholic faith are everywhere now to be found favorably disposed toward it. It is plain to say that Miss Jane Campbell, a Catholic, is president of the Philadelphia Woman Suffrage Association, the largest local suffrage society in the country. Again, something to be very proud of is the fact that the first woman on this side of the Atlantic who demanded the right to vote was a Catholic—Margaret Brent, of Maryland, on Jan. 21, 1747. The opposition to female suffrage is a matter of course. All great social and political reforms, as well as religious ones, have always been resisted by prejudices, customs and the old cry, 'Inopportune.' So it is with this. It is a battle—reason and justice opposed by senseless fears and selfish motives. The cause is just. It may be defeated today, but never conquered, and tomorrow it will be victorious."

"Farming in Europe."
Professor Olson of the Stevens Point Normal school leaves this summer for Europe, intending to spend several months studying conditions of agriculture and rural home life in different continental localities. What he sees and hears, he will "write up" for a number of newspapers in Wisconsin and Michigan. The articles will be edited by Prof. M. H. Jackson of the Wood County Normal, which in itself would be a sufficient guarantee that they will prove interesting to all.

The News has made arrangements with Messrs. Olson and Jackson so that these articles will be published in this paper. As Prof. Olson is an authority upon agricultural subjects and intends to make comparisons of old and new world conditions, the series will be awaited with much interest by the readers of The News.—Marshfield News.

The Tribune has also made arrangements to run the articles referred to above and they should prove of interest to everybody who cares to note the impressions made on an American by foreign methods.

Lynn-Saecker.
Miss Edith Lynn and H. A. Saecker, both of this city, were married this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in the town of Port Edwards, Rev. M. B. Milne of the Baptist church to perform the ceremony.

Both of these young people are well and favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of M. H. Lynn and has made her home in this city for a number of years in being engaged in teaching music. The groom has been engaged in the upholstering business here for a number of years past, and has made many friends here during his residence in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Saecker will make their home in this city, and the Tribune unites with their many friends in extending congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

Mr. Chafin was prohibition candidate for president in 1908, and is one of the most distinguished orators in the country.

Remember the administrator's sale of the Max Steinberg stock will continue until the entire stock is sold out.

Investing in Real Estate.
John E. Daly returned on Friday from Port Arthur and Port William, where he had been in company with T. A. Taylor for several days. Messrs. Daly and Taylor were so taken with the opportunities in that country that they invested in some real estate there, as may be seen from the following item, which is taken from the Port William Daily Times Journal of May 6th:

"Port William real estate in three parcels to the aggregate value of more than $75,000 was sold today through the agency of Young & Leslie to T. A. Taylor and John E. Daly, of Grand Rapids, Wis."

"The parcels involved in the deals are as follows: 53 feet at the corner of South May and Donald streets for $25,000; 82 feet at the corner of Franklin street and Victoria avenue, and 100 feet of trackage on the index trial spur at the corner of Syndicate avenue and Mary street."

"The gentlemen had had the prospect of Port William under observation for some time and their investment of today aptly and conclusively indicates their opinion of the present secure position of the city and of its future development."

"Special interest attaches to the May street property involved in the purchase. It is the corner immediately beyond the island hotel. In 1900, by making a special effort, S. O. Young induced Wm. Gilmore to pay $200 for it. Refusing several dating offers, Mr. Gilmore gave a practical demonstration of the wisdom of buying Port William property and holding it for a few years. He has had the use of it for about a dozen years and the revenues have amounted to several times the original cost to him."

"In closing the deals, the non-resident investors remarked that the local citizens were evidently just beginning to realize something of the importance of Port William to the commercial world. They will probably make additional investments before leaving the head of Canadian lake navigation."

Mr. Daly left again on Sunday for Port William to look after his interests, having closed his drug store here temporarily during his absence.

Death of Arvilla Clairmont.
Mrs. Adior Clairmont (nee Arvilla Demaris), died at Butte, Montana, on Saturday last as the result of pulmonary tuberculosis, a disease which she had been suffering from for several months.

Mrs. Clairmont had been taken to Idaho some time ago with the hope of improving her health, but without any favorable result, and she was on her way home when her death occurred.

Mrs. Clairmont was 32 years of age and is survived by her husband and two children.

Decased was born and reared in this city and for several years was employed as compositor in the Tribune office, and was of a most happy disposition. After her marriage she removed to Minneapolis where she resided since then. She has a large number of friends in this city who will unite with the Tribune in extending to the sorrowing family the most heartfelt sympathy.

The remains were taken to Minneapolis for burial.

Fable of the Man Who Was Blessed With an Inventive Turn of Mind.

Once upon a time there was a Guy who had been told in his youth that he was a Genius, and having absorbed the idea that a genius was not supposed to do much but sit around and look wise and invent things, he had rather a hard time of it.

When his wife used to ask him to Carry in an armful of wood he seldom got further than the back shed, when an idea for a new wood carrier would strike him and he immediately got busy inventing a proposition that could be rigged up so that all you had to do would be to touch a button, and the machine would do the work.

He never got it finished in time to carry in the wood, however, so his wife did that part of it.

He also invented a machine that would look the cradle and churn the Butter at the same time, so that all the wife had to do was to sit in the parlor and pull a string occasionally, while he went down to the grocery and Churned tobacco and Spit at the flow as they crawled around on the sidewalk.

The thing failed to work just Right, however, and the old lady used to hold the baby in her lap and Work the churn in the usual way.

Then he was unable to do anything for several weeks, he was so busy thinking out the details for a new electric cow milker. He was so busy on it that he didn't even have time to do the milking.

It was one of the most Complemented things that he had yet turned his Attention to, but he knew that when he got it completed it was going to be one of the greatest inventions of the age.

At last he got it finished, and there was only one trouble with it. It wouldn't Work. At last reports his wife was still doing the milking.

This last invention took so much of his energy that he wasn't able to do any real Work for quite awhile, but he managed to keep his membership in good Standing at the village store where the Knights of Rest held their daily sessions.

The next Big thing that he turned his Attention to was a patent car coupler. He had gotten up so many small things that he felt it was about time for him to do something that would put him on Easy street so that he would not be compelled to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow in his old age.

During the car-coupler stage he had to do a heap of thinking, and it was sometimes days at a time that he did not have time to even do the Chores about the house.

At last he got it Completed and in order to protect his right he got one of the local Attorneys to apply for a patent.

He was somewhat Pained to find that there had already been patents taken out on 3,245,121 different kinds of car Couplers, and that his patent infringed on 1,378 of them.

It naturally took him some little time to Catch his breath after receiving such a stunning blow in the solar plexus of his inventive ability, but he got his wind at last.

Then he invented a rigging for Cleaning windows without work, a mouse trap that would Catch all the mice in a house without being baited, a puzzle to Amuse the children, a patent Dish washer, a monkey wrench that was a Combination of two different tools, a potato peeler, an automobile tire that had no rubber or wind in it, a patent Clevis and several other small articles.

The last heard of him he was working on a Perpetual motion machine and had it so it would almost run. When you turned it by hand it did work fine, but it wouldn't quite go of its own accord, but he was expecting to get this part of it almost any time.

His wife was still doing her own Work and supporting the family Most of the time.

Moral—Good hard manual labor often puts more flour in the Bin than an inventive turn of mind.

CHORES FOR THE BOY.
The great loss of city boys is the loss of duties. Their sphere has been curtailed tremendously by the drawing of the city limit lines. When the boy lived on the farm or in the small town, he found plenty of things to do, which were sport in the doing and only incidentally work, says the St. Paul Dispatch. He went abroad on his duties, performing his chores, and on the way he found rich treasure which he brought back with him, and stored up for a lifetime's use. Did he go after the evening cattle, he led the soft earth move up between his happy feet and experienced a sensation of the composition, yes, and the poetry of the soil which the city boy can never know, however much he harks back to the asphalt. Every turn he made in his chores, in wood or field, in barnyard or stable, he found something to make it pleasure—were it only the exercise of muscles. The country boy had his limitations, no doubt. The city boy has his advantages, if he only knew how to take them. He has vast material in hand out of which to stimulate his imagination, to quicken his intelligence—If only he could retain, or his parents retain for him, some of the duties of old, some of the chores which would give ballast to his life. This may be the day of the "division of labor," and the bread man of the furnace and the lawn may perhaps do his work more steadily and more expertly than the boy of the house. But the boy should be considered in this division, and parents should not make their lives so easy that they rob him of doing his immortal chores.

Bishop Anderson of Chicago, supported by a goodly array of pastors in other cities, has declared that the church should not celebrate marriage until the intending bride and groom bring certificates of health and sanity. A Boston lady, the Rev. Mabel N. Wilham, now proposes to subject the candidates to three other tests as well. She will require the certificate of a flautist that the man is able to support a wife; one from a housekeeper that the woman is able to take charge of a household, and finally she would have evidence that the pair are supplied with "love immortal and divine which will render things glorious in their lives," says the New York World. There are hard rules. No man ever lived that was perfectly healthy and sane in the opinion of a physician. No young man was ever deemed quite competent to attend to business by an old flautist. No young woman was ever adjudged a good housekeeper by a council of grandmothers. And who shall give assurance of the love immortal and divine?

A Chicago judge has decreed that a married man should either stay at home nights or take his wife out with him, and adds that neglect of wives is at the bottom of most domestic unhappiness. After hearing the arguments advanced on various phases of the woman question, it will not be remarkable if some shocked critics of this bold judicial defender of woman's rights hold the doctrine that a married woman has as much right to have fun as a married man is socialistic, not to say revolutionary, and is calculated to break up the homes of the nation.

The way in which the Nobel prizes have been bestowed since their founding does not make good reading for those who believe that America is at the forefront in all forms of activity. Our country, with only two prizes to its credit, does not make a distinguished showing. At present America is decidedly in the "also-ran" class. Germany has received 16 awards. France has 10, England 7, Holland 5, and Russia, Italy, Switzerland and Sweden 4 each. The United States lines up with Denmark, Spain, Belgium and Austria, with two.

When women police are appointed one phase of their activity might be the breaking up of the annoying practice commonly known as "street mauling." They could do more effectively than the masculine part of the force with the detection of this particular class of offenders, because more unassisted in their slouching, while resistance to their authority would entail the same grave consequences.

Efforts are being made to get Chicago women to agree to have larger feet, but the attempts will probably be futile—not, we insist, because it would be impossible for Chicago women to have larger feet, as the obvious ones at other places will probably claim.

A learned judge holds that a woman has a right to go through her husband's pockets. Possibly the judge does not realize that woman has exercised that right ever since man began to wear clothes.

There are said to be 99,000 people to the square mile on Manhattan Island, but it is considered the same of provincialism to be acquainted with one's next door neighbor.

Milwaukee.—If plans of Secretary J. C. MacKenzie of the state board of agriculture are adopted, out-of-town visitors at the 1912 state fair may make their home during the week on the fair grounds. Arrangements have been made to supply tents, cots, etc., to all applicants at a nominal cost. The camp will be in the grove back of the administration building.

Milwaukee hotel proprietors are indignant over the plan of the state fair board to provide tents for the accommodation of visitors. The hotel men say that the plan would not work, and would have a bad effect upon their business.

COACH RICHARDS RESIGNS

Refusal of University Faculty to Excuse Athletes from Military Drill Is Given as the Reason.

Madison.—Following the action of the University of Wisconsin faculty in forcing athletes to take military drill to the exclusion of athletics, John R. Richards, head coach of the Wisconsin football and football teams, has severed his connection with the university.

The connection of John R. Richards with Wisconsin athletics has been a notable one. In 1895 he was captain of the football team. For four years he was a member of the varsity track team, holding the conference record in the high hurdles. In 1894 he was a member of the varsity crew.

During the last fifteen years he has been engaged largely in coaching work, coming to Wisconsin last fall. The record of his football team made Richards one of the great coaches of the country.

Milwaukee Greatest Rye Market.

Milwaukee.—Milwaukee is now the leading primary rye market of the country, according to the annual report of the Chamber of Commerce.

Neonah.—The twelfth annual convention of the Wisconsin Retail Grocers and Retail Merchants' association will be held at Fond du Lac Aug. 12, 13, 14, 15.

17,000 Autos Licensed.

Madison.—Nearly 17,000 autos have been given licenses this year by the secretary of state, bringing into the state treasury about $33,700. Applications for licenses are still coming in at the rate of 175 a day.

Berlin Board Deadlocked.

Berlin.—The school board is deadlocked over the re-engagement of W. T. Anderson as superintendent of schools.

Would Legalize Sunday Labor.

Madison.—The Seventh Day Adventists are starting an educational campaign, selecting the members of the Wisconsin legislature as the target of their attack to secure the enactment of laws more liberal to those who would like to work on Sunday.

Seven Fishermen Fined.

Marshfield.—Seven March Rapids fishermen were arrested by game wardens and taken to Wausau, where they paid fines.

Mad Dog Scare at Woodland.

Woodland.—The city is in the throes of a mad dog scare following the diagnosis of rabies in the brain of a dog that ran amuck recently. Several days have been killed and all animals are muzzled.

Plant Cherry Orchards.

Plymouth.—Sheboygan county bids fair to rival Door county in cherry cultivation. One thousand acres will be planted with new orchards this season.

PREPARING FOR DOLLY MADISON BREAKFAST

MRS. JUDSON HARRISON, GUEST OF HONOR.

An interesting spring hospitality, which is absorbing much attention, is the breakfast to be given by the Democratic women of Washington on May 20. Like the Jefferson day banquet given annually by the men of the Democratic party on the birthday anniversary of the father of Democracy, the breakfast of May 20 will honor the patron saint chosen by the women of the party, Mrs. James Madison, the one woman of all who have presided in the home of presidents who has been handed down to fame under an abbreviated Christian name. The beloved "Dolly" during her long life was said to be the most popular woman in the country.

HIGH COST CHECKED

EUROPEAN COUNTRIES SUCCEED IN REDUCING EXPENSE OF LIVING.

CO-OPERATIVE UNIONS CAUSE

President Taft Sends Second Installment of Consular Reports Regarding Excessive Rates in Europe to Congress—Prices at Fair Level.

Washington, May 7.—The president on Monday transmitted to congress the second installment of the reports of consular officers on co-operation and the cost of living which are the result of the investigation he some time ago directed should be made.

It appears from the information collected, the acting secretary says, that the rising cost of living has directed attention to and augmented the membership of the co-operative societies, more especially in France and Belgium. The French co-operative association ever has been in the main a success. It is a system of the United Kingdom. This tendency is towards small societies and the great majority of the associations represent grocery and bakeries. The most successful distributive societies are in the manufacturing cities of northeastern and central France. Among these societies relief funds are administered and insurance against illness and forced non-employment is supplied. Arrangements are made with dentists, doctors and artisans for their services by members on a commission basis.

The operation of the agricultural societies has been especially successful in southern France. The French government has given encouragement to these societies by furnishing expert advice, granting subsidies, and permitting long term loans by agricultural credit associations. The general buying is done principally through district unions. High-grade farm machinery such as is beyond the reach of many individual members is purchased from the surpluses or is loaned gratuitously or upon the payment of nominal fees.

In regard to industrial co-operative production it appears that plants owned and operated by the operatives are not uncommon in France.

Shriners in Convention.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 6.—Something like 5,000 visitors have come for the yearly convention of the Mystic Shrine, which opened here Saturday. It is the largest meeting the organization ever has held and the accommodations of the city are taxed to the utmost. The convention is scheduled to adjourn on May 11, and the intervening time will be taken up with automobile trips and entertainments.

TEN DIE IN WRECK

CONFEDERATE VETERANS' SPECIAL WRECKED IN MISSISSIPPI.

En Route to Annual Reunion at Macon, Ga.—Coaches Roll Down Embankment.

Hattiesburg, Miss., May 8.—The first section of the Texas Confederate reunion special, enroute to Macon, Ga., was wrecked at Gunns Mill last Monday, on the New Orleans & North-eastern railroad, six miles north of Hattiesburg, killing four trainmen and six or more passengers, and injuring at least twenty-five.

Five bodies were brought to Hattiesburg on the cars of the big special which remained on the track, and five or six other bodies were reported under the wreckage. The dead and injured:

Mrs. Charles Holmes, Bay Springs, Tex.
Mrs. James Cameron, Henderson, Tex.
Two unidentified girls, aged three and five; parents thought to be under wreckage.
Engineer "Bully" Wood, Hattiesburg.

Fireman C. C. Jones (colored), Meridian, Miss.
The train was from New Orleans, and was occupied entirely by the veterans and wives and families.

The cause of the wreck has not been ascertained positively. The train was running at about thirty miles an hour and was crossing an embankment with a trestle in the center. Just as the engine reached the trestle it was seen to rear up and leave the track. The five cars followed the engine, some tumbling down the embankment on one side and some on the other, forming a tangled mass of splinters and twisted iron. Two of the cars dashed against poles of the trestle, demolishing the poles and severing communication with Hattiesburg.

Women Parade in Gotham.

New York, May 6.—In the biggest parade ever held in America, 20,000 women marched from Washington square to Carnegie hall Saturday afternoon. Nearly every one of them wore a 28-cent hat adopted for the occasion.

The most unusual feature of the procession were Miss Annie Tinker's squad of cavalry women in breeches, boots and spurs; Mrs. Albert Pimpton's band of negroes and Miss Myrtle Jin's squad of Chinese women.

Soldiers of South Gather.

Macon, Ga., May 8.—The annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, which opened at Camp John B. Gordon Monday, has brought to the city a great throng of the veterans who fought for the south, together with their relatives and friends. The people of Macon are entertaining them most hospitably, thousands of homes being thrown open to them.

ADMITS THE CHARGE

SIX MILLION CARCASSES OF DISEASED ANIMALS PASSED BY INSPECTORS.

SAYS AGRICULTURAL DEPT.

Issues Statement in Which It Says the Animals Thus Sold for Public Consumption Were Only Slightly Affected.

Washington, May 9.—In the past six years no fewer than six million carcases of meat tainted by disease have been passed as wholesome by its inspectors and sold throughout the United States officially admits the department of agriculture.

Hurling to its own defense against charges brought by Representative Nelson that a conspiracy exists between the packing interests and the officials of the department by being flooded with diseased meat, it issued a special circular Tuesday in which it said: "If the inspectors follow the regulations and their instructions, they pass only meat which is sound, healthy, wholesome and fit for human food, as determined by the best scientific opinion of the world. This does not mean that if a sheep has the smut, or if a steer has the whirling disease, or if a pig has the swine fever, the meat is not fit for food, but that if the animal is so diseased as to render the meat unfit for food the meat is destroyed for food purposes, while on the contrary if the disease is slight, of such a character that the fitness of the meat for food is not affected then, of course, the sound meat is passed."

It was pointed out in Washington that ample proof of the seriousness of the charges against Secretary Wilson, Solicitor McCabe and A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry, contained in the resolution introduced by Representative Nelson is found in the generalissimo of the rebels, official files they have been obliged to offer a defense before an official investigation is begun or one witness heard. One remarkable feature of the defense is an attack made by Secretary Wilson upon Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane, who first called Mrs. Nelson's attention to the secret orders issued from the department of agriculture.

It was through such secret orders, according to charges made by Representative Nelson, that inspectors employed in packing houses owned by the trust are enabled to pass upon carcases of diseased animals and permit their distribution as wholesome food. Mr. Nelson is now in possession of photographs of these orders supplied by Mrs. Crane. In his defense Secretary Wilson states: "That Caroline Bartlett Crane is now under contract to work for the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., at a compensation of $100 per day."

MARYLAND FOR CLARK

MISSOURIAN AND ROOSEVELT GET POPULAR PLURALITY.

Both Will Control Their Respective State Party Conventions, According to the Returns.

Baltimore, Md., May 8.—On the face of the returns Tuesday Col. Roosevelt will get Maryland's 10 votes in the Republican national convention at Chicago. With the state and city organizations against him, he defeated them both by a close margin.

Speaker Champ Clark of the National house of representatives will have a majority of the Democratic delegates to the Maryland state convention and the delegation of 15 to the Democratic national convention will be instructed to vote for the speaker for the Democratic nomination for president.

Colonel Roosevelt will have 65 votes in the state convention, just a bare one over the 65 which constitute a majority of the 129 votes in the state convention. President Taft will have 63 votes and a further analysis of the returns may show that he may have sufficient friends among the delegates to control the personnel of the Maryland delegation. This will be important if Roosevelt cannot be nominated on the first ballot, as the state Republican leaders will then be able to throw them to Taft on subsequent ballots.

Speaker Champ Clark was backed in his fight by the entire city Democratic organization and he swept Baltimore and gets 24 votes in the state convention. Clark was also supported by the state organization and was an easy winner over Wilson and Harmon, and will have 80 votes in the state convention. Wilson, his strong opponent, captured 46, while Harmon received the four votes of Worcester county, the home of United States Senator John Walter Smith, who is a staunch supporter of the Ohio governor.

The total Democratic vote in Baltimore was 29,302. Clark received 19,277, Wilson 6,573 and Harmon 3,252. Clark was polled 164 votes for an unopposed delegate. Roosevelt's greatest strength was shown in Baltimore city, his vote being 12,495 to 7,283 for Taft.

Walla Walla, Wash., May 9.—The state Democratic convention in session here Tuesday, voted to endorse Champ Clark as its candidate for president. The vote stood: Clark 455; Wilson, 166; Bryan, 135 1/2; Harmon, 12 1/2.

It was therefore said definitely that Washington's 14 votes in the national Democratic convention will be cast solidly for Champ Clark.

STEAMER MINIA IN PORT

Vessel Carrying More Titanic Victims Arrives at Halifax—Charles M. Hays' Body Aboard.

Halifax, N. S., May 8.—With her flag at half mast as indicative of her mournful mission, the cable ship Minia, which succeeded the Mackay Bennett in the search for bodies of the Titanic disaster, arrived in Newfoundland from Grand Banks, arrived port Monday with 15 corpses on board. Seventeen bodies in all had been picked up by the Minia, but of these two were buried at sea. Among the bodies on board the ship was that of Charles M. Hays, late president of the Grand Trunk railway, who lost his life in the disaster. A special car was brought here for the body of Mr. Hays.

REBELS FORM A GOVERNMENT

Mexican Insurrectos Name Gomez as Provisional President—Establishes Capital in Juarez.

El Paso, Tex., May 7.—Emilio Vasquez Gomez was declared Saturday provisional president of Mexico and established his provisional capital in the customs house in Juarez, where Francisco Madero established his provisional capital May 10 last year. He appointed Col. Pascual Orozco, father of the generalissimo of the rebels, minister of war, and Lie. Moreno Canton of Yucatan, minister of foreign relations. The rest of the cabinet will be named later.

DETECTIVE BURNS TO ADDRESS BANKERS

Annual Convention of State Body July 24 and 25.

TO BE HELD IN MILWAUKEE

Group Seven of the Wisconsin Association to Hold Meeting in City of La Crosse on May 16.

Madison.—The annual convention of the Wisconsin bankers' association will be held in Milwaukee, July 24 and 25. W. J. Burns, head of the Burns detective agency, who was responsible for the arrest of the McNamara brothers, dynamiters, will be one of the speakers. He will talk on detective methods. Mr. Burns is in charge of the protection work of the American Bankers' association.

One half day session of the convention will be devoted to agricultural discussion, the topics to include the reports of the various agricultural contests held under the auspices of the association during the past year. A special feature will be an adding machine contest in which several employees of each bank will be entered. The annual meeting of group No. 7 of the association will be held in La Crosse on May 16.

Legislature Is Adjourned.

The special session of the legislature adjourned sine die and the session left for their homes. Before adjournment Speaker Ingram paid a tribute to the legislature for establishing a new record in the handling of matters of legislation.

"We established a record," said Speaker Ingram, "because the members of the senate and assembly are trained and experienced in matters pertaining to law making. I want to thank the legislature for the earnest manner in which they went about the work of the special session. Despite the approach of political contests in this state and the temptation to talk politics at a time when representatives were here from every section of the state, there was no playing of politics by the members."

A committee of five, three members of the assembly, Messrs. Simon Smith, Hanson and Bergh, and two members of the senate, Messrs. Tenside and Donald, were appointed to wait upon the governor and inform him that the legislature was ready to adjourn sine die.

Speaking for the governor, Mr. Smith, upon the return of the committee, said:

"The governor has no further message to the legislature, except that he wishes to thank the legislature for the prompt manner in which it attended to the business of the special session."

The bill providing for the non-partisan municipal elections in all of the cities of this state was signed. The appropriation bills relating to Black River Falls were also signed.

Two members of the assembly, Assemblymen Hanson and Simon Smith, reached Madison in time to be present when the legislature adjourned.

Many Grow Cranberries.

Cranberries as a money-making crop for Wisconsin farmers is receiving much attention this year, as is indicated from the dozens of inquiries about cranberry culture received by G. M. Miles, superintendent of the University of Wisconsin cranberry station. That the northern counties are most interested in the crop and that many farmers who have marsh land suitable for cranberry growing are expecting to start cranberry bogs, are also indicated from the letters received. A big cranberry bog will be started near Spooner this year and another is under consideration near Phelps.

Find Work for Hundreds.

The monthly report of the Wisconsin free employment office shows that during April 240 men and women were placed in work. Over 400 people actually were sent to positions weekly, and it is believed that many of them may have secured work without reporting back to the office. Since April 1, the demand for help has increased 50 per cent. About 1,500 men were called for by employers last month, as compared with only 1,000 during March. Although the amount of work increased, the number of people calling at the office for employment was not lessened.

Articles of Incorporation.

Articles of incorporation were filed in the office of Secretary of State Frear as follows:

Milwaukee Patent Leather company, Milwaukee; capital, $100,000; incorporators, Edwin A. Oliver, Gordon S. Falk, William J. Jackson.

Harter, Hartford, $15; Henry Martin, Milwaukee, $20; L. N. Stevens, Montello, $20; Charles W. Sturdevant, Sparta, $15; W. H. Stanton, Wisconsin Veterans' home, $15; Anton Williams, Cleveland, $15;

CHORES FOR THE BOY.
The great loss of city boys in the loss of duties. Their sphere has been curtailed tremendously by the drawing of the city limit lines. When the boy lived on the farm or in the small town, he found plenty of things to do, which were sport in the doing and only incidentally work, says the St. Paul Dispatch. He went abroad on his duties, performing his chores, and on the way he found rich treasure which he brought back with him, and stored up for a lifetime's use. Did he go after the evening cattle, he left the soft earth more open to him, his happy toes and experienced a sensation of the compulsion, yes, and the poetry of the soil which the city boy can never know, however much he has a foot in the asphalt. Every turn he made in his chores, in word or deed, in language or action, he found something to make it pleasure—work. It only took exercise of muscles. The country boy had his limitations, no doubt. The city boy has his advantages, but he only knew how to take them. He has vastly more material in hand out of which to stimulate his imagination, to quicken his intelligence. If only he could retain, or his parents retain for him some of the virtues of old, some of the chores which would give ballast to his life. This may be the day of the "division of labor," and the bread won of the furnace and the lawn may perhaps do his work more steadily and more explicitly than the boy of the house, but the boy should be considered in this division, and parents should not make their lives so easy that they rob him of doing his innermost chores.

Bishop Anderson of Chicago, supported by a goodly army of pastors in other cities, has declared that the church should not celebrate marriages unless the intending bride and groom bring certificates of health and sanity. A Boston lady, the Rev. Mabel R. Wilham, now proposes to subject the candidates to three other tests as well. She will require the certificate of a financier that the man is able to support a wife; one from a housekeeper that the woman is able to take charge of a household; and finally she would have evidence that the pair are supplied with "love immortal and divine which will render things glorious in their lives," says the New York World. "These are hard rules. No man ever lived that was perfectly healthy and sane in the opinion of a physician. No young man was ever deemed quite competent to attend to business by an old financier. No young woman was ever adjudged a good housekeeper by a council of grandmothers. And who shall give assurance of the love immortal and divine?"

A Chicago judge has decreed that a married man should either stay at home nights or take his wife out with him, and adds that neglect of wives is at the bottom of most domestic unhappiness. After hearing the arguments advanced on various phases of the woman question, it will not be remarkable if some shocked critics of this bold judicial decree of woman's rights hold the doctrine that a married woman has as much right to have fun as a married man is socialistic, not to say revolutionary, and is calculated to break up the homes of the nation.

The way in which the Nobel prizes have been bestowed since their founding does not make good reading for those who believe that America is at the forefront in all forms of activity. Our country, with only two prizes to its credit, does not make a distinguished showing. At present America is decidedly in the "also-ran" class. Germany has received 16 awards, France has 10, England 7, Holland 5, and Russia, Italy, Switzerland and Sweden 4 each. The United States lines up with Denmark, Spain, Belgium and Austria, with two.

When women police are appointed one phase of their activity might be the breaking up of the annoying practice commonly known as "street mashing." They could deal more effectively than the masculine part of the force with the detection of this particular class of offenders, because more unsuspecting in their slouching, while resistance to their authority would entail the same grave consequences.

Efforts are being made to get Chicago women to agree to have larger feet, but the attempts will probably be futile—not, we insist, because it would be impossible for Chicago women to have larger feet, as the obvious ones of other places will probably claim.

A learned judge holds that a woman has a right to go through her husband's pockets. Possibly the judge does not realize that woman has exercised that right ever since man began to wear clothes.

There are said to be 99,000 people to the square mile on Manhattan Island, but it is considered the norm of provincialism to be acquainted with one's next door neighbor.

New Jersey woman took cyanide of potassium by mistake for headache powders. It cured the headache.

A Missouri judge rules that a barber is not an artist, but a good many of them are accomplished linguists.

One of the easiest ways to start a family quarrel is to compile a list of the "Ten Most Beautiful Women."

When butter is made directly from grass, it will be largely a matter of cogwheels and a steam whistle.

TO PROVIDE TENTS FOR FAIR VISITORS

Board of Agriculture Expects to Adopt Housing Plan.

HOTEL MEN ARE INDIGNANT

Declare Fair May Lose Their Financial Support If the Plan of Erecting Sleeping Quarters in Corner of Park Is Carried Out.

Milwaukee. If plans of Secretary J. C. MacKenzie of the state board of agriculture are adopted, out-of-town visitors at the 1912 state fair may make their home during the week on the fair grounds. Arrangements have been made to supply tents, cots, etc., to all applicants at a nominal cost. The camp will be in the grass back of the administration building.

Milwaukee hotel proprietors are indignant over the plan of the state fair board to provide tents for the accommodation of visitors. The hotel men say that the plan would not work and would have a bad effect upon their business.

A member of the fair board says that although the plan had not been formally put before the board, it had been the intention of several of the members for several years to inaugurate such a system for the convenience of the farmers who come to the fair with their stock and children and find it difficult to secure accommodations in the city hotels. He said that he had little doubt that the plan would be adopted by the board at its next meeting.

Under the plan, each family will be able to secure a single or a double tent at a reasonable cost.

The hotel proprietors have conferred large stakes for the recent year, and it is said by several that this support will be withdrawn if the plan was adopted.

COACH RICHARDS RESIGNS

Refusal of University Faculty to Excuse Athletes from Military Drill Is Given as His Reason.

Madison. Following the action of the University of Wisconsin faculty in forcing athletes to take military drill to the exclusion of athletics, John R. Richards, head coach of the Wisconsin basketball and football teams, has announced his resignation from the university.

"That the faculty action in refusing to excuse athletes from military drill makes it absolutely impossible to place competitive athletes on an efficient basis at the university is the reason Coach Richards gives for his action."

The connection of John R. Richards with Wisconsin athletics has been a notable one. In 1895 he was captain of the football team. For four years he was a member of the varsity track team, holding the conference record in the high hurdles. In 1898 he was a member of the varsity crew.

During the last fifteen years he has been engaged largely in coaching work, coming to Wisconsin last fall. In the record of his football team made Richards one of the great coaches of the country.

The resignation will take effect on Aug. 2, when Coach Richards' present contract expires.

Three More Titanic Victims.
Racine. Mrs. Eric West and two sons, residents of Racine, were among the passengers aboard the steamship Titanic and lost their lives. Eric West, a former baker of Racine, husband and father, is on the Pacific slope, and does not know of the death of his wife and sons. Mrs. West and children left Racine for Denmark two years ago, and West went to Tacoma, Wash. It has just become known that Mrs. West and her sons had sailed on the Titanic as steerage passengers.

Milwaukee Croquet: Rye Market.
Milwaukee. Milwaukee is now the leading primary rye market of the country, according to the annual report of the Chamber of Commerce. The receipts during 1911 amounted to 2,072,640 bushels. The receipts during 1910 amounted to 2,267,730 bushels.

HIGH COST CHECKED

EUROPEAN COUNTRIES SUCCEED IN REDUCING EXPENSE OF LIVING.

CO-OPERATIVE UNIONS CAUSE

President Taft Sends Second Installment of Consular Reports Regarding Excessive Rates in Europe to Congress—Prices at Fair Level.

Washington, May 7.—The president on Monday transmitted to congress the second installment of the reports of consular officers on co-operation and the cost of living which are the result of the investigation he some time ago directed should be made. The countries included in this installment are France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Denmark.

It appears from the information collected, the acting secretary says, that the rising cost of living has directed attention to and augmented the membership of the co-operative societies, more especially in France and Belgium. The French co-operative associations are in the main arranged upon the same system as those in the United Kingdom. The tendency is to unite small societies and the great majority of the associations represent groceries and bakeries. The most successful distributive societies are in the manufacturing cities of northeastern and central France. Among these societies relief funds are administered and insurance against illness and forced non-employment is supplied. Arrangements are made with dentists, doctors and artisans for their services by members on a consultation basis.

The operation of the agricultural societies has been especially successful in southern France. The French government has given encouragement to these societies by furnishing expert advice, granting subsidies, and permitting long term loans by agricultural credit associations. The general buying is done principally through district unions. High-grade farm machinery such as is beyond the reach of many individual members is purchased from the surpluses or is loaned gratuitously or upon the payment of nominal fees.

In regard to industrial co-operative production it appears that plants owned and operated by the operatives are not uncommon in France.

TEN DIE IN WRECK

CONFEDERATE VETERANS' SPECIAL WRECKED IN MISSISSIPPI.

En Route to Annual Reunion at Macon, Ga.—Coaches Roll Down Embankment.

Hattiesburg, Miss., May 8.—The first section of the Texas Confederate reunion special, enroute to Macon, Ga., was wrecked at Gains Mill last Monday, on the New Orleans & Northern railroad, six miles north of Hattiesburg, killing four trainmen and six or more passengers, and injuring at least twenty-five.

Five bodies were brought to Hattiesburg on the coast of the big special which remained on the track, and five or six other bodies were reported under the wreckage. The dead and injured:

Mrs. Charles Holmes, Bay Springs, Tex.

Mrs. James Cameron, Henderson, Tex.

Two unidentified girls, aged three and four; parents thought to be under wreckage.

Engineer "Billy" Wood, Hattiesburg.

Fireman C. C. Jones (colored), Meridian, Miss.

The train was from New Orleans, and was occupied entirely by the veterans and wives and families.

The cause of the wreck has not been ascertained positively. The train was running at about thirty miles an hour and was crossing an embankment with a trestle in the center. Just as the engine reached the trestle it was seen to rear up and leave the track. The five cars followed the engine, some tumbling down the embankment on one side and some on the other, forming a tangled mass of splinters and twisted iron. Two of the cars dashed against poles of the Chamberlain telegraph, thirty feet from the track, demolishing the poles and cutting communication with Hattiesburg.

ADMITS THE CHARGE

SIX MILLION CARCASSES OF DISEASED ANIMALS PASSED BY INSPECTORS.

SAYS AGRICULTURAL DEPT.

Issues Statement in Which It Says the Animals Thus Sold for Public Consumption Were Only Slightly Affected.

Washington, May 8.—In the past six years no fewer than six million carcases of meat tainted by disease have been passed as wholesome by its inspectors and sold throughout the United States, officials admit the department of agriculture.

Referring to its own defense against charges brought by Representative Nelson that a conspiracy exists between the packing interests and the officials of the department by which the entire country is being flooded with diseased meat, it issued a special circular Tuesday in which it said:

"It was pointed out in Washington that ample proof of the seriousness of the charges against Secretary Wilson, Solicitor McCabe and A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry, contained in the resolution introduced by Representative Nelson is found in the fact that for the first time in their official lives they have been obliged to offer a defense before an official investigation is begun or any witness heard. One remarkable feature of the defense is an attack made by Secretary Wilson upon Mrs. Carolina Bartlett Crane, who first called Mrs. Nelson's attention to the secret orders issued from the department of agriculture."

It was through such secret orders, according to charges made by Representative Nelson, that inspectors employed in packing houses owned by the trust are enabled to pass upon carcasses of diseased animals and permit their distribution as wholesome food. Mr. Nelson is now in possession of photographs of these orders supplied by Mrs. Crane. In his affidavit Secretary Wilson states: "Mrs. Carolina Bartlett Crane is now under contract to work for the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., at a compensation of $100 per day."

MARYLAND FOR CLARK

MISSOURIAN AND ROOSEVELT GET POPULAR PLURALITY.

Both Will Control Their Respective State Party Conventions, According to the Returns.

Baltimore, Md., May 8.—On the face of the returns Tuesday Clark Roosevelt will get Maryland's 16 votes in the Republican national convention at Chicago. With the state and city organizations against him, he defeated them both by a close margin.

Speaker Champ Clark of the National house of representatives will have a majority of the Democratic delegates to the Maryland state convention and the delegation of 15 to the Democratic national convention will be instructed to vote for the speaker for the Democratic nomination for president.

Colonel Roosevelt will have 65 votes in the state convention, just a bare one over the 65 which constitutes a majority of the 129 votes in the state convention. President Taft will have 63 votes and a further analysis of the returns may show that he may have sufficient friends among the delegates to control the personnel of the Maryland delegation. This will be important if Roosevelt cannot be nominated at the first ballot, as the state Republican leaders will then be able to throw them to Taft on subsequent ballots.

Speaker Champ Clark was included in his fight by the entire city Democratic organization and he swept flat through and gets 21 votes in the state convention. Clark was also supported by the state organization and was an easy winner over Wilson and Harmon, and will have 50 votes in the state convention. Wilson, his strong opponent, captured 16 seats from Clark in the four years of Warmer county, the home of United States Senator John Walter Smith, who is a staunch supporter of the Ohio governor.

The total Democratic vote in Baltimore city was 29,302. Clark received 19,277, Wilson 6,573 and Harmon 3,252. There were polled 154 votes for an unopposed delegate. Roosevelt's greatest strength was shown in Baltimore city, his vote being 12,696 to 7,233 for Taft.

Walla Walla, Wash., May 9.—The state Democratic convention in session here Tuesday, voted to endorse Champ Clark as its candidate for president. The vote stood: Clark 455; Wilson, 160; Bryan, 134; Harmon, 15.

It can therefore be said definitely that Washington's 14 votes in the national Democratic convention will be cast solidly for Champ Clark.

STEAMER MINIA IN PORT

Vessel Carrying More Titanic Victims Arrives at Halifax—Charles M. Hays' Body Aboard.

Halifax, N. S., May 8.—With her flags at half mast as indicative of her mournful mission, the cable ship Minia, which succeeded the Mackay Bennett in the search for bodies of the Titanic disaster victims, arrived in Newfoundland grand banks, arrived in port Monday with 16 corpses on board. Seventeen bodies in all had been picked up by the Minia, but of these two were buried at sea. Among the bodies on board the ship was that of Charles M. Hays, late president of the Grand Trunk railway, who lost his life in the disaster. A special car was brought here for the body of Mr. Hays.

DETECTIVE BURNS TO ADDRESS BANKERS

Annual Convention of State Body July 24 and 25.

TO BE HELD IN MILWAUKEE

Group Seven of the Wisconsin Association to Hold Meeting in City of La Crosse on May 15.

Madison. The annual convention of the Wisconsin Bankers' association will be held in Milwaukee, July 24 and 25. W. J. Burns, head of the Burns detective agency, who was responsible for the arrest of the McNamara brothers, dynamiters, will be one of the speakers. He will talk on detective methods. Mr. Burns is in charge of the protective work of the American Bankers' association.

One half day session of the convention will be devoted to agricultural discussion, the topics to include the reports of the various agricultural congresses held under the auspices of the association during the past year. A special feature will be an address on the Chicago contest in which several chapters of each bank will be entered.

The annual meeting of group No. 7 of the association will be held in La Crosse on May 15.

Legislature Is Adjourned.
The special session of the legislature adjourned sine die and the session left for their homes. Before adjournment, Speaker Ingram paid a tribute to the legislature for establishing a new record in the handling of matters of legislation.

"We established a record," said Speaker Ingram, "because the members of the senate and assembly are trained and experienced in matters pertaining to law making. I want to thank the members for the manner in which they went about the work of the special session. Despite the approach of political contests in this state and the temptation to talk politics at a time when representatives were here from every section of the state, there was no playing of politics by the members."

A committee of five, three members of the assembly, Messrs. Simon Smith, Hanson and Herch, and two members of the senate, Messrs. Treadwell and Donald, were appointed to wait upon the governor and inform him that the legislature was ready to adjourn sine die.

Speaking for the governor, Mr. Smith, upon the return of the committee, said:

"The governor has no further message to the legislature, except that he wishes to thank the legislature for the prompt manner in which it attended to the business of the special session."

The bill providing for the non-partisan municipal elections in all of the cities of this state was signed. The appropriation bills relating to Black River Falls were also signed.

Two members of the assembly, Assemblymen Hanson and Simon Smith, reached Madison in time to be present when the legislature adjourned.

Many Grow Cranberries.
Cranberries as a money-making crop to Wisconsin farmers is receiving much attention this year, as is indicated from the dozens of inquiries about cranberry culture received by G. M. Miller, superintendent of the University of Wisconsin cranberry station. That no northern counties are more interested in the crop and that many farmers who have marsh land suitable for cranberry growing are expecting to start cranberry bogs, are also indicated from the letters received. A big cranberry bog will be started near Spooner this year and another is under consideration near Phillips.

Cranberries have wintered in this state and in only a few places have the vines hurt by the frost. A considerable number of tests on flooding will be conducted at the university cranberry station at Grand Rapids this season, and a new type of pump for supplying water to bogs will also be tried out.

Finde Work for Hundreds.
The monthly report of the Wisconsin free employment office shows that during April 240 men and women were placed in positions each week. Over 100 people were developed as potential workers weekly, and it is believed that many of them may have secured work without reporting back to the office. Since April 1, the demand for help has increased 50 per cent. About 1,500 men were called for by employers last month, as compared with only 1,000 during March. Although the amount of work increased, the number of people calling at the office for employment was not lessened.

Articles of Incorporation.
Articles of incorporation were filed in the office of Secretary of State Frear as follows:

Milwaukee Patent Lumber company, Milwaukee; capital, $100,000; incorporators, Edwin A. Oliver, Gordon S. Falk, William P. John.

The following pensions have been granted: Ehrenreich Bender, Ahlesman, $20; W. A. Kent, Warren, $15; Emmott Ellis, Berlin, $12; Mary A. Lerum, Durand, $10; David W. Crim, who was born on the speakers. The school has been closed by the smallpox scare. In all of the programs, in addition to the regular Arbor day features, attention was called to the importance of the prevention and the saving and encouraging of the birds. Prof. K. L. Hatch of the university was the speaker at the Drayton school.

Arbor Day Programs in Schools.
Arbor day programs were carried out in all of the Madison schools except in the high school. Thero State Normal, David W. Crim, who was born on the speakers. The school has been closed by the smallpox scare. In all of the programs, in addition to the regular Arbor day features, attention was called to the importance of the prevention and the saving and encouraging of the birds. Prof. K. L. Hatch of the university was the speaker at the Drayton school.

Alumni Directory Out.
Out of 8,576 graduates of the University of Wisconsin from 1849 to 1911, 565 are dead, according to the new alumni directory which has been received by Milwaukee graduates. The total number of degrees granted is 9,814. A total of 727 Wisconsin graduates are in Milwaukee; Chicago has about 590; Madison has about 300. The number of graduates living in 6,644. Women graduates living number 2,267. The directory, published under the direction of the board of regents, contains 448 pages.

Ask Ralse for Van Hise.

The executive committee of the Alumni association of the University of Wisconsin has passed resolutions asking the regents to increase the salary of President Charles R. Van Hise to $10,000, the amount received by President George E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota and by President E. J. James of the University of Illinois.

A bulletin of the United States bureau of education, sent by the post office, to the notice of the alumni the fact that President Benjamin E. Wheeler of the University of California receives $12,000; President James of Illinois, $10,000; President G. Vincent of the University of Minnesota, $10,000; President J. J. Sherrman of Cornell, $10,000; President L. L. Sparks of Pennsylvania State college, $9,000; President E. S. Aldrich of University of Virginia, $8,000; President H. H. Hildreth, University of Michigan, $8,000; President A. Ross, University of Missouri, $7,000, while President Van Hise receives $6,000.

Uruguay Commission at U. W.
Six special commissioners of art and science, appointed by the government of Uruguay, South America, to study a trip and five stock in cattle, in Europe, North America and Australia, spent a day at the University of Wisconsin in visiting the various departments of the college of agriculture.

$106,000 for Black River Falls.
Black River Falls will receive a flood fund of $106,000.

This amount was agreed upon by the conference committee, appointed by the two houses. The committee agreed upon the appropriation of $1,000, as provided in bill No. 113, as it was. This reimburses the relief committee for money expended in construction work and for filling in overflowed lands, so they will not be a menace to the community's health. The cut by the finance committee of the appropriation in No. 11A of $65,000 to $55,000 was adopted by the senate.

The members of the senate were A. W. Sanborn, John M. Whitehead and John M. True, of the assembly, Messrs. Hill, R. J. Nye and F. B. McVittie.

When the report was presented to the senate that house receded from its amendment to No. 11A and adopted the report. The assembly concurred in the senate amendment to No. 11A, cutting down the appropriation from $65,000 to $55,000.

CHORES FOR THE BOY.

The great loss of city boys in the loss of duties, their sphere has been curtailed tremendously by the drawing of the city limit lines. When the boy lived on the farm or in the small town, he had plenty of things to do, which were part of the doing and doing. Incidentally work, says the St. Paul Dispatch. He went abroad on his duties, performing his chores, and on the way he found rich treasure which he brought back with him, and stored up for a lifetime's use. Did he go after the evening cattle, he left the soft earth move up between his happy toes and experienced a sensation of the composition, yes, and the poetry of the soil which the city boy can never know, however much he has feet to the asphalt. Every turn he made in his chores, in wood or field, in barnyard or stable, he found something to make it pleasant—were it only the exercise of muscles. The country boy had his limitations, no doubt. The city boy has his advantage, if he only knows how to take them. The boy who has no material in hand out of which to stimulate his imagination to quicken his intelligence—if only he can retain, or his parents retain for him, some of the virtues of old, some of the chores which would give ballast to his life. This may be the day of the "division of labor," and the hired man of the farm and the town may perhaps do his work more steadily and more explicitly than the boy of the house. But the boy should be considered in this division, and parents should not make their lives so easy that they rob him of doing his immortal chores.

Bishop Anderson of Chicago, supported by a goodly array of pastors in other cities, has declared that the church should not celebrate marriage unless the intending bride and groom bring certificates of health and sanity. A Boston lady, the Rev. Mabel R. Williams, now proposes to subject the candidates to three other tests as well. She will require the certificate of a fiancée that the man is able to support a wife; one from a housekeeper that the woman is able to take charge of a household, and finally she would have evidence that the pair are supplied with "love immortal and divine which will render things glorious in their lives," says the New York World. These are hard rules. No man ever lived that was perfectly healthy and sane in the opinion of a physician. No young man was ever deemed quite competent to attend to business by an old financier. No young woman was ever adjudged a good housekeeper by a council of grandmothers. And who shall give assurance of the love immortal and divine?

A Chicago judge has decreed that a married man should either stay at home nights or take his wife out with him, and adds that neglect of wives is at the bottom of most domestic unhappiness. After hearing the arguments advanced on various phases of the woman question, it will not be remarkable if some decided critics of this bold judicial defender of woman's rights hold the doctrine that a married woman has as much right to have fun as a married man is socialistic, not to say revolutionary, and is calculated to break up the homes of the nation.

The way in which the Nobel prizes have been bestowed since their founding does not make good reading for those who believe that America is at the forefront in all forms of activity. Our country, with only two prizes to its credit, does not make a distinguished showing. At present America is decidedly in the "also-ran" class. Germany has received 16 awards, France has 10, England 7, Holland 5, and Russia, Italy, Switzerland and Sweden 4 each. The United States lines up with Denmark, Spain, Belgium and Austria, with two.

When women police are appointed one phase of their activity might be the breaking up of the nurserying practice commonly known as "street mashing." They could lead more effectively than the masculine part of the force with the detection of this particular class of offenders, because more unsuspected in their slouching, while resistance to their authority would entail the same grave consequences.

Efforts are being made to get Chicago women to agree to have larger feet, but the attempts will probably be futile—not, we insist, because it would be impossible for Chicago women to have larger feet, as the evidence of other places will probably claim.

A learned judge holds that a woman has a right to go through her husband's pockets. Possibly the judge does not realize that woman has exercised that right ever since man began to wear clothes.

There are said to be 99,000 people to the square mile on Manhattan Island, but it is considered the acme of provincialism to be acquainted with one's next door neighbor.

TO PROVIDE TENTS FOR FAIR VISITORS

Board of Agriculture Expects to Adopt Housing Plan.

HOTEL MEN ARE INDIGNANT

Declare Fair May Lose Their Financial Support If the Plan of Erecting Sleeping Quarters in Corner of Park is Carried Out.

Milwaukee, May 8.—If plans of Secretary J. C. MacKenzie of the state board of agriculture are adopted, out-of-town visitors at the 1912 state fair may make their home during the week on the fair grounds. Arrangements have been made to supply tents, cots, etc., to all applicants at a nominal cost. The camp will be in the grove back of the administration building.

Milwaukee hotel proprietors are indignant over the plan of the state fair board to provide tents for the accommodation of visitors. The hotel men say that the plan would not work, and would have a bad effect upon their business.

A member of the fair board says that although the plan had not been formally put before the board, it had been the intention of several of the members for several years to inaugurate such a system for the convenience of the farmers who come to the fair with several children and find it difficult to secure accommodations in the city hotels. He said that he had little doubt but what the plan would be adopted by the board at its next meeting.

Under the plan, each family will be able to secure a single or a double tent at a reasonable cost.

The hotel proprietors have contributed large stakes for the race track, and it is said by several that this support might be withdrawn if the plan was adopted.

COACH RICHARDS RESIGNS

Refusal of University Faculty to Excuse Athletics from Military Drill is Given as the Reason.

Madison.—Following the action of the University of Wisconsin faculty in forcing athletes to take military drill to the exclusion of athletics, John R. Richards, head coach of the Wisconsin baseball and football teams, has severed his connection with the university.

That the faculty action in refusing to excuse athletes from military drill to the exclusion of athletics, to place competitive athletics on an official basis at the university is the reason Coach Richards gives for his action.

The connection of John R. Richards with Wisconsin athletics has been a notable one. In 1895 he was captain of the football team. For four years he was a member of the varsity track team, holding the conference record in the high hurdles. In 1894 he was a member of the varsity crew.

During the last fifteen years he has been engaged largely in coaching work, coming to Wisconsin last year. The record of his football team made Richards one of the great coaches of the country.

The resignation will take effect on Aug. 2, when Coach Richards' present contract expires.

Three More Titanic Victims.

HIGH COST CHECKED

EUROPEAN COUNTRIES SUCCEED IN REDUCING EXPENSE OF LIVING.

CO-OPERATIVE UNIONS CAUSE

President Taft Sends Second Installment of Consular Reports Regarding Excessive Rates in Europe to Congress—Prices at Fair Level.

Washington, May 7.—The president on Monday transmitted to congress the second installment of the reports of consular officers on co-operation and the cost of living which are some time ago directed should be made. The countries included in this installment are France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Denmark.

It appears from the information collected, the acting secretary says, that the rising cost of living has directed attention to and augmented the membership of the co-operative societies, more especially in France and Belgium. The French co-operative associations are in the main arranged upon the same system as those in the United Kingdom. The tendency is to centralize the association and the great majority of the associations represent grocery and food stores. The most successful distributive societies are in the manufacturing cities of northeastern and central France. Among these societies relief funds are administered and insurance against illness and forced non-employment with dentists, druggists and artisans for their services by members on a commission basis.

The operation of the agricultural societies has been especially successful in southern France. The French government has given encouragement to those societies by granting subsidies and expert advice, granting term loans by agricultural credit associations. The general buying is done principally through district unions. High-grade farm machinery such as is beyond the reach of many individual farmers is loaned, leased or purchased on the payment of nominal fees.

In regard to industrial co-operative production it appears that plants owned and operated by the operatives are not uncommon in France.

TEN DIE IN WRECK

CONFEDERATE VETERANS' SPECIAL WRECKED IN MISSISSIPPI.

En Route to Annual Reunion at Macon, Ga.—Coaches Roll Down Embankment.

Hattiesburg, Miss., May 8.—The first section of the Texas Confederate reunion special, enroute to Macon, Ga., was wrecked at Gunns Mill last Monday, on the New Orleans & North-eastern railroad, six miles north of Hattiesburg, killing four trainmen and six or more passengers, and injuring at least twenty-five.

Five bodies were brought to Hattiesburg on the cars of the big special which remained on the track, and five or six other bodies were reported under the wreckage. The dead and injured were hurriedly taken to the hospital.

Mr. Charles Holmes, Bay Springs, Tex.

Mrs. James Cameron, Henderson, Tex.

Two unidentified girls, aged three and five; parents thought to be under wreckage.

Engineer "Billy" Wood, Hattiesburg.

Fireman C. C. Jones (colored), Meridian, Miss.

The train was from New Orleans, and was occupied entirely by the veterans and wives and families. The cause of the wreck has not yet been ascertained positively. The train was running at about thirty miles an hour and was crossing an embankment with a trestle in the center. Just as the engine reached the trestle it was seen to rear up and leave the track. The five cars following the engine, some tumbling down the embankment on one side and some on the other, forming a tangled mass of splinters and twisted iron. Two of the cars dashed against poles of the Cumberland telephone, thirty feet from the track, demolishing the poles and bringing communication with Hattiesburg.

ADmits THE CHARGE

SIX MILLION CARCASSES OF DISEASED ANIMALS PASSED BY INSPECTORS.

SAYS AGRICULTURAL DEPT.

Issues Statement in Which It Says the Animals Thus Sold for Public Consumption Were Only Slightly Affected.

Washington, May 9.—In the past six years no fewer than six million carcases of meat tainted by disease have been passed as wholesome by its inspectors and sold throughout the United States officially admits the department of agriculture.

Hurrying to its own defense against charges brought by Representative Nelson that a conspiracy exists between the packing interests and the officials of the department by which the entire country is being flooded with diseased meat, it issued a special circular Tuesday in which it said: "If the inspectors follow the regulations and their instructions, they pass only meat which is sound, healthy, wholesome and fit for human food, as determined by the best scientific opinion of the world. This does not mean that if a sheep has the sniffles, or if a steer has the warbles the meat of the animal is condemned. It means that if the animal is so diseased as to render the meat unfit for food the meat is destroyed for food purposes, while on the contrary if the disease is slight and of such a character that the meat is fit for food it is not affected, and, of course, the sound meat is passed."

It was pointed out in Washington that ample proof of the seriousness of the charges against Secretary Wilson, Solicitor McCabe and A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry, is contained in the resolution introduced by Representative Nelson is found in the fact that for the first time in their official lives they have been obliged to offer a defense before an official investigation is begun or one witness heard. One remarkable feature of the defense is an attack made by Secretary Wilson upon Mrs. Carolina Bartlett Crane, who first called Mrs. Nelson's attention to the secret orders issued from the department of agriculture.

It was through such secret orders, according to charges made by Representative Nelson, that inspectors employed in packing houses owned by the trust are enabled to pass upon carcases of diseased animals and permit their distribution as wholesome food. Mr. Nelson is now in possession of photographs of these orders supplied by Mrs. Crane. In his defense Secretary Wilson stated: "Mrs. Carolina Bartlett Crane is now under contract to work for the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., at a compensation of $100 per day."

MARYLAND FOR CLARK

MISSOURIAN AND ROOSEVELT GET POPULAR PLURALITY.

Both Will Control Their Respective State Party Conventions, According to the Returns.

Baltimore, Md., May 8.—On the face of the returns Tuesday Col. Roosevelt will get Maryland's 16 votes in the Republican national convention at Chicago. With the state and city organizations against him, he defeated them both by a clear margin.

Speaker Champ Clark of the National house of representatives will have a majority of the Democratic delegates to the Maryland state convention and the delegation of 15 to the Democratic national convention will be instructed to vote for him as speaker for the Democratic nomination.

Colonel Roosevelt will have 66 votes in the state convention, just a bare one over the 65 which constitutes a majority of the 129 votes in the state convention. President Taft will have 63 votes and a further analysis of the returns may show that he may have sufficient friends among the delegates to control the personnel of the Maryland delegation. This will be important if Roosevelt cannot be nominated on the first ballot, as the state Republican leaders will then be able to throw them to Taft on subsequent ballots.

Speaker Champ Clark was backed in his fight by the entire city Democratic organization and he swept Baltimore and gets its 21 votes in the state convention. Clark was also supported by the state organization over Wilson and Harmon, and will have 50 votes in the state convention. Wilson, his strongest opponent, captured 45, while Harmon received the four votes of Worcester county, the home of United States Senator John Walter Smith, who is a staunch supporter of the Ohio governor.

The total Democratic vote in Baltimore city was 29,302. Clark received 12,777, Wilson 6,573 and Harmon 3,293. There were polled 164 votes for an unopposed delegation, Judge Wilson's greatest strength was shown in Baltimore, his vote being 12,095 to 7,937 for Taft.

Walla Walla, Wash., May 9.—The state Democratic convention in session here Tuesday, voted to endorse Champ Clark as its candidate for president. The vote stood: Clark 455; Wilson, 166; Bryan, 135; Harmon, 134.

It can therefore be said definitely that Washington's 13 votes in the national Democratic convention will be cast solidly for Champ Clark.

STEAMER MINIA IN PORT

Vessel Carrying More Titanic Victims Arrives at Halifax—Charles M. Hays' Body Aboard.

Mr. Burns is in charge of the protective work in the American Bankers' association.

One half day session of the convention will be devoted to agricultural discussion, the topics to include the reports of the various agricultural committees held under the auspices of the association during the past year. A special feature will be an address by the association in which several chapters of each bank will be entered.

The annual meeting of group No. 7 of the association will be held in La Crosse on May 16.

Legislature is Adjourned.

The special session of the legislature adjourned sine die, and the session left for the summer. Before final adjournment Speaker Ingram made a tribute to the legislature for establishing a new record in the handling of matters of legislation.

"We established a record," said Speaker Ingram, "because the members of the senate and assembly were trained and experienced in matters pertaining to the making of laws. I want to thank the members for the earnest manner in which they went about the work of the special session. Despite the approach of political contests in this state and the temptation to talk politics at a time when representatives were here from every section of the state, there was no playing of politics by the members."

The committee of five, three members of the assembly, Messrs. Simon Smith, Hanson and Bergh, and two members of the senate, Messrs. Tensdale and Donald, were appointed to wait upon the governor and inform him that the legislature was ready to adjourn sine die.

Speaking for the governor, Mr. Smith, upon the return of the committee, said: "The governor has no further message to the legislature, except that he wishes to thank the legislature for the prompt manner in which it attended to the business of the special session."

The bill providing for the non-partisan municipal elections in all of the cities of this state was signed. The appropriation bills relating to Black River Falls were also signed.

Two members of the assembly, Assemblymen Hanson and Simon Smith, reached Madison in time to be present when the legislature adjourned.

Many Grow Cranberries.

Unhappily for a money-making crop Wisconsin farmers are receiving much attention this year, as is indicated from the dozens of inquiries about cranberry culture received by O. G.

THE QUEST OF GENTLE HAZARD

Being the Adventures in Love and Chivalry of Lord Richard Jocelyn

By H. M. EGBERT

Sauce and Gander

"The trouble with you, Richard," said his new stepmother, "is that you don't look for the right sort of a girl. Wealth is not always associated with ostentation. There are plenty of sweet and charming heiresses who have never seen the interior of any of those gaudy Fifth Avenue palaces in which you find no lady. But you have never had the luck to meet them."

Richard shrugged his shoulders moodily. Since the advent of his father and stepmother the subject of the necessity of his making a wealthy alliance had been pressed on him more urgently than ever.

"Now," she continued, "I have picked out a wife for you. All you will have to do will be to go to the city and win her. She isn't in society, and she hasn't a string of diamonds dangling after her, because she's too sensible for that sort of thing, and I may say, because she isn't one of those flashy girls who attract men in the multitude. And if I didn't believe that you would fall genuinely in love with her, I wouldn't help you to meet her. But, money apart, you were made for each other, Richard, and I want you to marry her."

"What's her name?" asked Jocelyn moodily.

"Mary Davenant,"

"Never heard of her," he groaned. "Is she a good-looking?"

"She's a nice, pretty, sensible American girl," said his stepmother. "And she's worth a couple of millions—pounds, not dollars. Of course, you haven't heard of her, for she lives in a very secluded life, and has no use for fashions and follies. And I must tell you, Richard, that she is a little disconcerted by the experiences she has had. You'll have to show her for what she is for herself and not for her property."

"Well, where is this paragon to be found?" Jocelyn demanded.

"She's staying at Atlantic City with her companion, Miss Constance Grice—at the 'Charlottes.' I had a letter from her yesterday, for she and I were schoolmates and are still good friends, and I have promised that I shall come down and bring you with me. Of course I have no intention of accompanying you, Richard; I want you to go alone. Now, pack your suit case, go down, and fall head over heels in love with her. And don't fail in love with the companion instead."

The first part of this injunction Jocelyn obeyed readily enough. As to the probability of the second or third, he was sceptical. His experiences in the search for a bride who should restore the waning fortunes of the Jocelyns had been bitter ones; still, when duty called he would not shrink from following her. And so, on the following day, he found himself installed at the 'Charlottes' and looking out of his window moodily at the melancholy October sea.

The season was over, the hotel almost empty, and even had Jocelyn gone to Atlantic City with no ulterior purposes, it would have been difficult, without consciousness, to have avoided making the acquaintance of the two ladies. They sat at the table adjacent to his own; they met on the deserted board walk; before the week was ended the three were fast friends. Jocelyn wrote to his stepmother:

"I believe that I could love either of them. They are evidently well educated women, and either would adorn the family. But I shall follow up the heiress."

And as the days passed he found the attractions of the blue-eyed, brown-haired Mary Davenant increasingly alluring. They spent many a pleasant hour together, Miss Grice watching the growing interest of the one in the other with evident sympathy. Miss Grice was not pretty, but still an amiable and attractive girl.

And then occurred an incident which completely upset Lord Jocelyn's mental equilibrium.

It was a trivial affair, and yet it awakened in him dormant suspicions and recalled other and sadder circumstances in which he had found himself the victim of feminine duplicity. Entering the hotel late one evening, he perceived the two ladies strolling toward their apartment a little ahead of him. They had not observed him. Of a sudden Miss Grice stopped.

"My shoe is coming unfastened," Jocelyn heard her say.

Promptly Mary Davenant bent down upon her knees and tied it for her. Jocelyn went to bed and meditated for a long time before sleep came to him. On the following day he wrote to his stepmother:

"I told you that I had come to like Mary Davenant, as I thought her to be, immensely. I have long suspected that she was not wholly ignorant of the object I had in view in coming to Atlantic City. And I have discovered that a trick has been played upon me. Miss Davenant and Constance Grice have changed places. The companion is ungenerous as the mistress, the mistress as the companion, I am sure. Tell me, in heaven's name, which is which and what her purpose is."

"Dearest Richard," the answer came, two days later. "Mary Davenant is the girl with the dark hair and gray eyes. I do not know Miss Grice, but I imagine that she is fair-haired and has blue eyes. It is the young woman I once met at Miss Davenant's house. And now I will let you into a little secret, Richard. I told you that Miss Davenant was disillusioned. She has had the same unhappy experiences that you have had. And she has

ed. "I have known for days that Miss Davenant had persuaded you to change names with her, so as to test me. For she knew I loved her and she feared that it was for her wealth and not for herself." He broke off abruptly. He was like a swimmer in treacherous waters. He could not think clearly. Dared he pursue this infatuation? Could he indeed settle himself to marry this companion, dearly as he loved her, without some further proof of her devotion? Suppose she, too, had tried to trick him into this proposal?

By revealing his knowledge of her secret he had shown in the clearest possible manner that he loved her for herself alone. But, if he defied his father and married her—considering his past experiences in love, might he not be justified in proving his love in this way? Since she had deceived him in the testing, would he not be justified in deceiving her in putting her to the proof?

These thoughts ran through his brain like lightning; hardly an appreciable interval had elapsed before he continued:

"You asked me why I am sad," he said. "Constance, darling, will you give me your word of honor that you love me for myself alone? That you are not enticed by the glamor of my name?"

"Why, no, Richard," she answered wonderingly.

He led her to the stone bench and sat down. "But suppose that I were dishonorable," he said. "Would you still love me?"

"You dishonorable!" she whispered, laying her cheek against his own. "You could not be dishonorable, Richard."

"But I am," he said with a groan. "I am a masquerader. I am not Lord Jocelyn. Listen, Constance. I am one of those Englishmen who, having somehow acquired a knowledge of the ways of gentlemen, frequent the city and gain wealth by the purchase of Atlantic City to pursue Miss Davenant. But love claimed me and I am happier in my failure than if I had succeeded. But I am no lord."

"Then what are you, Richard?" his companion demanded.

He hesitated, casting round in his mind for the occupation which might most easily arouse disgust in her. How could he pursue a discreet life, test something, and make her believe that he must endure for her? "Tinker—tailor—soldier—sailor!" the jingle ran through his mind.

Then, with an inspiration, he answered: "I am an undertaker, Constance. Could you love an undertaker?"

"I could love any honest man, Richard," she answered. "And I honor you only the more for having confessed the truth to me."

"But what will Miss Davenant say?" asked Jocelyn with a sudden smile.

"Poor Mary!" said Constance, smiling. "Richard, will you let me break the news to her?"

She parted from him at the entrance to the hotel, saying good night there, and left him sitting meditatively with out, pondering over this new problem that had arisen so swiftly and yet had been so happily solved. It was past midnight when he went to bed.

Miss Davenant received the news with equanimity. At the breakfast table on the following morning she congratulated him and his fiancée kindly. Both ladies were in traveling dress.

"And so you're not Lord Jocelyn any more?" she said. "Well, you must come and visit us just the same. It is too bad that your engagement should have cut short our happy time together or here."

"But why should it be cut short, Miss Davenant?" Lord Jocelyn asked. "When do you leave?"

"This afternoon," she answered. "It would hardly be the thing to leave you two young people together here unchaperoned."

In this decision she proved inexorable, and she bore her companion away on the early afternoon train, promising Richard, however, that he might visit the ladies at Miss Davenant's town house on Fifth-fifth street, New York, on the third day, when they had finished the autumnal housecleaning. When they had gone he sat down and wrote a letter to his stepmother.

"I have made a glorious fool of myself," he wrote. "I have become engaged to the companion. And yet I am glad of it, for I know that this time I have met a girl who is exactly suited to me and that we are destined to be very happy together, for I have told her that I was only masquerading as a lord and that I am really an undertaker, and she still loves me. Will you keep up the illusion, in which Miss Davenant believes, interested with my father for me—and forgive me?"—Richard.

No answer came until the third morning, just as he was feverishly packing his suit case for the run up to town. Then, by the last post to arrive before the train started, Jocelyn received a note from his stepmother.

"Richard," it began, "I could not bring myself to write to you before. This disgrace is too terrible for me to bear and I dare not break the news of it to your father until our own honeymoon is over; he is so proud of you and believes so fully in you. Richard, break it off like a gentleman. Poor fellows, you do not know what you have let yourself in for, for, if you thought that you deceived that do- ingling Grice woman, she deceived you too. She is only a companion in training. Miss Davenant has curious whims and is now attempting to make a lady out of a scrubwoman. Yes, Richard, it is a scrubwoman whom you have engaged yourself to, and if you will take the trouble to call at the Davenant house unexpectedly, you will find your inamorata in a native element, down on her knees, and very red in the face, polishing floors."

He flung the letter from him with a derisive gesture.

"So even my stepmother turns against me!" he said bitterly. "I don't care what she is. She's an angel, anyway, and fit to scrub the floor of heaven. I must be in love badly, for I am becoming quite foolish about her." He added, as he made a dash after the hotel omnibus.

Nevertheless, once he was back in his apartment on Madison avenue, surveying the face of Talbot, his melancholy servant, an insistent melody forced itself upon him.

What if the romantic environments of the seashore replaced by the prosaic surroundings of conventional life, he should find that he had been blind to Constance's defects? The recalled each speech of hers, each gesture, and each reminder nothing unworthy. But he longed to put his love to the test by observation, and the hours seemed torture to him.

He had written to the ladies to expect him at three o'clock that afternoon, about that hour, attired in a dark frock coat, black trousers and a white tie, as befitted his new occupation, he rang the bell of the Davenant mansion on Fifth-fifth street. After an unusually long delay a liveried servant opened the door to him.

"Er—I've come to see Miss Grice," stammered Lord Jocelyn, conscious

And then there Richard, Lord Jocelyn, was put to the test of his life.

Down by the waves at Atlantic City, when the two women had associated on terms of practical equality, Jocelyn had been wholly ignorant of and indifferent to social ratings and ranks. It was enough for him that he loved, and that nature attuned herself to his mood. But here, in these seclusion of men, recalled with suddenness to those customs and ideas which a thousand years of civilization had hardened into a traditional code—how could he stoop to raise the servant in the ill-fitting dress to his own social level? How could he take her to wife, bring her back to Doubtless Manor, introduce her to the country-side?

And yet he had been trained in the conventional code of honor of a gentleman. Whatever he did he must do quickly, for Constance Grice had read the struggle in his face and no longer assumed.

And then, instead of disgust and self-pity, Jocelyn felt only love, risen, and stronger than before. He clasped her in his arms and kissed her, and his fears dissolved like shadows before him.

"Constance, darling, I must tell you now," he said. "I really am Lord Jocelyn, and not an undertaker. I wanted to test your love and now I know it as surely as I know mine for I know it."

"Well said, Richard," cried a voice outside the door, and out of the dark passage emerged his stepmother. Richard looked at her in little surprise. So many astonishing things had been happening that one more hardly counted.

"She was testing you, too, Richard," his stepmother said. "This is Mary Davenant, my half-sister, and the best amateur actress in New York. Now, don't you dare to scold her, my dear boy. If you blame anybody you can blame me, but it was your own suggestion that she try the trap, and you yourself walked into it. I gave the order to the footman to turn you away from the front door. And Mary was acting strictly under my own orders, for she, like you, wanted to test your love for her."

"But I knew you loved me, dearest," said Mary Davenant, smiling through the tears that stood in her eyes. "Because you did want me for myself and not for my money."

"Then all I can say to you young people," said his stepmother, "is go and trust each other henceforward all together for the rest of your lives."

"But you—you deceived me all along," blurted out Lord Jocelyn angrily.

"I did, Richard," said his stepmother. "They say they have to drive a donkey backward to get him anywhere, and since you wouldn't be driven the way you ought to go, why—O, how true it is that it takes a woman to manage a man!"

Fashion's Fancies

LIGHT, DAINTY TRIFLES FIT CENTERPIECE OF VELVET

Excellent Manner in Which Effects of Age, Discolorations, May Be Covered Up.

CHILDREN'S BONNETS MADE UP OF LACE, BRAIDS AND RIBBON.

This Season's Models Show Some of the Prettiest Designs That Milliners Have Favored Us With for Many Years.

One of the choicest shapes in bonnets made for little girls is pictured here. Children's bonnets generally are made of light and airy materials, narrow and elegant laces and trimmed with soft, plain meshulle ribbons and tiny blossoms. Occasionally a pretty model shows narrow velvet ribbon used. Every one of these hats bears the stamp of a designer who knows how to express childishness in the ensemble of the design. They are especially attractive. They are soft and comfortable and fit the small heads for which they are designed perfectly.

Nearly all models for children are lined with sheer silk, like China silk or liberty silk. Cliffs are employed for facings and sometimes as a foundation under lace.

As a rule the little hats are without ties and in many cases set so closely to the head that they hardly need fastenings. A short bridle of velvet or silk ribbon in a narrow width is provided on some models, to insure keeping the hat from falling off in case of its being displaced. A flat elastic still remains the most effective means of fastening little girls' hats.

One of the prettiest and coolest of silk bonnets is shown here, made of meshulle in ribbon and having ties of meshulle ribbon. The bonnet is built on a wire frame and faced with a smart shirring of the silk. Rows of narrow shirred tucks cover the brim, and the crown is a big puff of silk. This model is trimmed with a crushed band and rosettes of meshulle ribbon but little bouquets of flowers in the form of rosettes, or nosegays are used and captivate their little wearers and everybody else, for that matter.

There is a great variety of shapes this season to select from, when one chooses for a child those shown here with a few more decidedly poke-bonnet effects, are representative styles.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Nothing but Crepe. One young society woman has announced that she intends to wear nothing but cotton crepe gowns this summer. She has experimented, and says no other material is so satisfactory. Its softness makes it invariably becoming, and it is easy to care for—the laundering process is of the simplest and it needs no pressing. She insists that her things are not going to look like the things of the past. The crepes can be embroidered and hemstitched or adorned with braid and buttons; the skirts can be made long or short. She has ordered several dresses for tennis, which are to be made with loose skirts and Byron collars. She has tried heavy cotton crepe in a Norfolk suit, and found it ideal; so she is enthusiastic about her plan, feeling sure it is going to be a great success.

Prominent Shapes in Parasols. Parasols with novel much tubed ribs, variously termed "dome" parasols, "barrel" parasols, etc., are rapidly gaining in favor, says the Dry Goods Economist, particularly in the better grades of merchandise. This style is especially effective when combined with a canopy top or with the new method of fulling or gathering the gores. The latter feature is prominent, especially in styles draped with chiffon or tulle, those covered with dainty flower laces.

Narrow Skirts Remain in Style. Forecasts change in skirts, especially for the tailor-made suits, while for costumes and dresses there is a growing inclination to more ample lines, so cleverly contrived that the narrow silhouette of the last two seasons seems not disturbed.

New Gowns. A rather original and very handsome evening wrap shows a short surplice of Venetian point over a long coat of striped velvet, brown on a crimson ground. It has for trimming bands of bear fur, of a lighter brown than is generally seen, and the lace concludes in deep fringe, which does not hang free, but is finished in its turn by a band of plain brown velvet.

Very effective is a charming ball gown, of that greenish yellow exactly the hue of clouded amber, carried out in a chapeau of a particularly dull surface, embroidered with polished amber beads and others of the same color, but "frosted" in appearance, combined with gold thread, "old gold" and greenish gold.

Yokes Worn Outside. Very deep yokes which are to be worn outside of the bodice entirely, instead of being tucked in around the edges, as yokes usually are, are also extremely fashionable for wear with extremely frothy or over-stuffed and silk blouses which are used with tailored suits. Some of these droop over the shoulders, while others stop short at the shoulder line, and in selecting such a yoke it is well to remember that the greater difference of these accessories is made by the breadth across the shoulders. Sprigged batiste, with ruffles in the same pattern, is used for some of these yokes.

New Neckwear. The floral bow consists of a small bath or velvet nosegay with stemmers of long soft green satin, fringed off at the end with tiny bugs. Bunches of green velvet foliage are used as substitutes for the usual flowers and look well beneath the chin, falling upon lace.

The colored detachable neckbands, which consist of a silk fringe of the same shade sewn to the lower edge of the collar, is a smart and pretty resource. Such neckbands fasten in front with a pair of fancy laces instead of being invisibly closed at the side or back, or they are secured by cord ending in tassels.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHES?

Aches and Twinges Point to Hidden Kidney Trouble. Have you a lame back, aching day and night? Do you feel a sharp pain after bending over? When the kidneys seem sore and the action irregular, use Doan's Kidney Pills, which have cured thousands.

Dr. J. W. Priest, Third St., St. Marysville, Ohio, says: "I was in awful condition from kidney trouble, having run down in weight from 220 to 150 pounds. The pains across my back and limbs were constantly growing worse and my kidneys were causing untold annoyances. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me after doctors failed. I have had no trouble since."

"When your back is lame, remember the name—DOAN'S—'See all stores'—J. W. Priest, St. Marysville, Ohio."

DOMESTIC AMENITIES.

Hubby—I've waited an hour for you to get your hat on straight.

Wifey—Well, I've waited longer than that for you to get your feet on straight.

FOR EVERY FAMILY MEDICINE CHEST

To the head of every family the health of its different members is most important, and the value of an agreeable laxative that is certain in its effect is appreciated. One of the most popular remedies in the family medicine chest is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is known to druggists and physicians as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

This preparation is mild and gentle in its action on the bowels, yet positive in its effect. A dose of Syrup Pepsin, at night, means relief next morning, while its tonic properties tone up and strengthen the muscular system of stomach, liver and bowels, so that those organs are able in a short time to again perform their natural functions without help.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried this simple, inexpensive, yet effective remedy, write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, N. H., and ask for a sample bottle. Dr. Caldwell will be glad to send it without any expense to you whatever.

Horrid! "I think the worst man I ever heard of" (Dr. Wolf Hopper is talking) "was perpetrated in my presence the other day. A bachelor friend of mine has a curious custom of never carrying or even possessing a watch. I was talking to him about this, and said: 'How do you know what time it is in the morning, when you want to get up?'"

"That's easy," replied he. "My neighbors keep chickens. The rooster is my chronometer."—The Sunday Magazine.

Sure Thing. "Do you believe she will love me long?" "Well, I know she won't love you short."

Stop the Pain. The hurt of a burn or a cut stops when Col. Carbolene is applied. It soothes, quickly and prevents scars. See and be by druggists. For free sample write to J. W. Cole Co., Black River Falls, Wis.

As soon as a woman discovers that she is unable to reform her husband she begins on her neighbors.

Dyspepsia, despair, not! While there's Garfield Tea, there's hope.

Don't kick till you know just where the shoe pinches.

BACKACHE NOT A DISEASE

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky. "I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back aching, and I was killing me. I had such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years since I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think my medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Lord Jocelyn Was Put to the Test of His Life

BANDS TO MARK ORANGES

The cigar-band idea is about to be utilized by the orange growers of California for the purpose of marking the fruit in order that consumers may readily recognize the brands which suit their taste best. Some time ago it was decided by the association of growers, which largely controls the shipment of fruit, that the golden spheres should be wrapped in tissue paper, which was designed to accomplish this purpose, but it was found that the mission of the wrapper was not successful in this respect, in that the papers were removed without so much as a glance. In many cases the removal took place before the fruit was delivered to the consumer. It is thought that a decorative circle, like the cigar band, will accomplish its desired purpose, for it will, in all probability be allowed to remain on the fruit until it reaches the consumer, and in this way they are, in part, to oranges will become acquainted with the qualities of the different kinds and those of different growers.

Spider on the Payroll. A St. Louis man who has recently returned from the Panama Canal Zone tells this story of the canal zone. One day his wife found a huge tarantula in the bathroom. The creature was almost as big as the palm of one's hand, and presented a truly terrible aspect.

The woman fled in terror, and her husband went in and crushed the big spider with the heel of a boot.

On going down to dinner they encountered the spider. "What a tremendous tarantula, up in our room!" said the American.

The proprietor started excitedly, and clutched at his hair.

"Great Scott!" he cried. "You shouldn't have killed it!"

Taft and Roosevelt.

"You lie," says Roosevelt to President Taft. "Your statements are false," says the president. Meanwhile the country looks on disbelievingly at one of the most disgraceful controversies ever indulged in by men of high standing. It is the first time in the history of the American Republic that a president has so far lost his dignity and self respect as to get out and indulge in personalism. It is also the first time that an American has broken a president and come out openly seeking the presidency for the third time.

Neither Roosevelt or Taft are deserving of the honors that have been given them. Taft's administration has proved that neither man nor party is the standard of American citizenship. The people of the country have become disgusted with the whole affair and they are ready to vote for any man other than Roosevelt or Taft. The republic can party is split from end to end. The disruption caused by Taft's election is nothing compared with the havoc wrought by Roosevelt. He has plunged into the game and has disregarded all the rules of political conduct to win again the presidency.

Expensive for Everyone.

Uncle Jon Clinton announced in passing Saturday that he had drawn $250,000 for salary and perquisites since he has been a member of the lower house, and that his expenses have been half a million dollars for the same period. He declared that the only way he had been able to make both ends meet was by drawing upon the income of his farm in Illinois. Moved almost to tears by the publication of this statement, the house of representatives decided not to reduce the traveling fee of members from twenty cents to five cents per mile. The statement of Uncle Jon shows that it would have been better for everyone had he never entered politics. It has proven a heavy burden upon his own resources, and no one will question that he has been a great trial to the country at large. The great puzzle now is, why did he stay in congress so long? He forgot to explain that.

MEEHAN

Lots of corn is being planted this week. Our rural mail carrier is now spinning around his route in a new automobile. Oliver Grallie and Tom Smart of Stevens Point were callers here Sunday. Clyde Kinney has a new house up and enclosed and expects to soon occupy the same. Lewis Duffoe of Valley Junction is here visiting with relatives at present. He may decide to stay in this vicinity this season. A subscription list has been circulated here and among interested parties for the purpose of raising funds to erect a new fence and make other improvements at our local cemetery. People have contributed generously and a nice amount has been raised. Next Saturday, May 18th is the date set for working on the fence and enclosing up the cemetery. It is hoped that a large crowd will turn out for we believe this is a move in the right direction and will aid to the appearance and respect of our community.

SIGEL

Carl Zeeman and George Henke, who are employed at Potter's marsh, were home over Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Hefernan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klovren and Mrs. Louis Zeeman were visitors at the Will Hanks home Sunday afternoon and evening. The children of St. John's Lutheran church will be confirmed next Sunday. Polly Gutbrodt entertained a few friends at her home Sunday afternoon and evening. These present report a most enjoyable time. Among those present were Esther Schuetz, Ella Knuth, Clara Zeeman, Paul Schuetz, Alex Schuetz, Bernard Knuth, Chas. Ringor and Steve Schuetz.

REMINGTON

Adolph Sanger departed for Iowa the fore part of last week where he expects to work. R. F. Hess, chairman of our town, spent the greater part of last week at Grand Rapids looking after the town's affairs. Miss Minnie White visited with relatives at Grand Rapids this week. Mr. and Mrs. Ratz made a business trip to Pittsville last Friday. Mrs. A. E. Keenan of Dexterville spent Sunday with her daughter Agnes at the Lowe home. C. S. Lowe is attending the jury at the Grand Rapids court house this week. Services were held at the Catholic church at Babo on May 13th. The next divine services will be on May 14th in the forenoon.

SENECA CORNERS

A baseball game was played at the Corners last Sunday between the Gophers of Alford and the Tigers of Grand Rapids, the score being 1 to 1 in favor of the Grand Rapids team. Another game will be played here next Sunday between the Gophers and a team from Sigel. A Mr. Schaefer from Spencer has bought the old Dietz farm near the Corners, and he and his family arrived here on Monday to take charge of the place. The roads out this way have dried up sufficiently so that travel has resumed its normal condition.

Protecting Cattle From Flies.

Prof. C. G. Humphrey, Wisconsin College of Agriculture, says that the annoyance of animals by flies is one of the unpleasant features of the summer time for cattlemen, especially dairymen. Men are continually seeking information and a means for overcoming this annoyance. To accomplish this, however, is one of the perplexing problems for which an entirely satisfactory solution has not been found. The keeping of the stables by covering the windows with gauzy sacks or dark cloth is a poor plan, and at the same time providing for the ventilation of plenty of fresh air is a difficult task. Cattle from flies while in the barn at milking time. On extremely hot days when pasture are not provided with good shade, it undoubtedly would be best to put the cows into the barn several hours prior to milking time, which not only protects them from flies, but also from the hot sun.

Temporary relief from this is to be found in applying fly repellents which are offered on the market, and which cost in the neighborhood of $1 per gallon. The following list of fly repellents, together with the companies manufacturing them, has been used more or less at the University Farm.

"Donkey's Fly Knocker" Donkey Mfg. Co., Cleveland, Ohio
"So-Boss" Chas. H. Gillette, Utica, New York
"Blue Fly" Sheen Fly Mfg. Co., 3120 N. 10th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
"Flyene" American Distros. Co., Camden, New Jersey
"Fly Remover" Ripley Hardware Co., Gracill, Ill.
"Will Kill Flies" Karaka-Mower Co., Utica, New York
"Fly Oil" Dr. David Roberts, Waukegan, Wis.

Temporary relief for a few hours is all that any of these will accomplish. Spraying the cows with a spray pump immediately after they have come to the stable may be practiced, but may taint the milk with the odor of the spray, and if the stable is darkened it is a better plan to spray only when the cows leave the barn for the pasture. The relief which any one of these sprays renders cows undoubtedly makes an investment in these fly repellents worth while and to be recommended.

NEKOOSA

A bad week occurred on the St. Paul road, in Nekoosa, about 11 o'clock Friday morning, but fortunately no one was injured. An local freight No. 91 was coming around the loop, and when just opposite the Lutheran church, two cars were derailed and badly twisted around. One car was thrown down the embankment on the one side, with one end of the car across the track; the other car was picked up bodily and hurled down the embankment on the other side, at least two feet from the track. On Wednesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mofarige, a shower was held in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Edith Lynn (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lynn) to Mr. Sackor of Grand Rapids. Light refreshments were served and a general good time was enjoyed by all. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received. A bad accident occurred in the loop last Tuesday afternoon, about five o'clock, the unfortunate man being Steve Ostapowich, head fireman at the Nekoosa-Edwards paper mill. Mr. Ostapowich was crossing the alley near the Benz hotel when he was struck by a runaway team and knocked unconscious. When those who were near reached the injured man he was as dead as he will be when he is laid out for burial. Dr. Ponatinsky reached him about noon as any one, and had him carried to his room in the hotel, where he administered restoratives and after a time brought him to consciousness. An examination resulted in the discovery of two broken ribs, badly bruised and battered back, chest badly damaged, more or less internal lacerations in fact brutal and "battered" all over. At this writing, Monday evening, he was able to partially raise himself in bed and was improving very satisfactorily.

An Anas.
"G. W. Smith says he loves to live in the suburbs in winter."
"Humph! And the rascal was born on Washington's birthday and named after him, too."—Judge.

Auto Suggestion.
To show how unconsciously a man's business may be in his mind at all times, I took a financial reporter to a fancyer's to select a dog, and what kind of a dog do you think he asked for at once?

"What kind?"
"A water dog. Said he had heard it was a good stock proposition."

Might Not Get the Children.
A young lady of ten was discussing her future with her mother.

"Yes, mamma," she said, "I shall get married and I shall have four children."
"That will be nice!" commented the mother.

"Not!" continued the young lady after a minute or two of deep thought. "Maybe I won't have four children. I might marry a bachelor!"—Saturday Evening Post.

John's Logic.
John returned home at a very questionable hour, and among other souvenirs of a special evening he carried a considerable gash on his forehead.

"Nothin' he's harmed 'bout, m' dear. Jer' bit m' self."

"John Brown! How could you bite yourself on the forehead?" exclaimed his startled helpmate.

This had presented no difficulties to the versatile John, if it had taxed the credulity of his spouse.

"I stood on chair, y'know," he explained glibly.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt
Screen alfalfa seed.
Destroy the little weeds.
Good dairymen keep no dogs.
Horses can be pastured on alfalfa.
The right kind of seed is half the crop.
Kill the small weeds and there will be no big ones.
Chicks raised in brooders are not bothered with lice.
Grass was never more welcome to cows than this spring.

Broiler prices are somewhat better than they were last month.

It is well to assume when chickens are dying that the disease is contagious.

Put a slatted frame over the drinking trough and the water will be kept cleaner.

The early spring chicken catches the good price. Raise early spring chickens.

Plant good seeds. Poor seeds are dear, no difference what price you pay for them.

Get the incubator at work on the broiler crop as early as possible. Delay means loss.

No incubator can make good hatches from poor eggs, that is, those lacking in fertility.

More incubator hatches are spoiled by the anxiety of the operator than from any other one cause.

Lard, vaseline and enough sulphur to make a paste makes a good remedy for sorehead in chicks.

Vegetables delight in having a warm, deep, rich and mellow soil, and will pay generously for the privilege.

Lice feed on the young chickens—that is one great reason that they fail to make the growth they should.

Carefulness in dressing poultry pays for the extra pains taken. The pin feathers must all be removed.

There is genuine satisfaction in owning thoroughbred stock and they cost no more to feed. Go in for the best.

Worry along without a trap nest, but keep your eyes open for the best layers, and set their eggs next spring.

A little ground charcoal mixed with the chicks' feed now and then will help keep away digestive troubles.

Three rules for success in gardening are: Freedom from weeds, thinning out, and keeping the ground mellow.

With reasonably good seed and a fairly well prepared seed bed, about 20 pounds of alfalfa seed is required per acre.

If the breeders are in poor condition you will get many eggs that do not hatch well or that produce puny chickens.

It is claimed by some onion growers that carbolic acid emulsion gives satisfactory results in fighting the onion maggot.

Nitrate of soda is the most quickly available source of nitrogen for plants, but buyers should steer clear of low grade nitrate.

Crimson clover makes fairly good cattle, but, like all plants rich in protein, it develops a strong and rather objectionable odor.

A tight wire fence around your garden will do more to promote harmony between neighbors who keep chickens than anything else.

Strongly fertile eggs from good healthy stock will often hatch well, and produce good chickens under unfavorable conditions.

Government reports state that more up-to-date agricultural machinery has been sold the last ten years than during any previous ten years.

It is not safe to pasture either cattle or sheep on alfalfa, as they are liable to bloat when it is fed green. Feed them the hay or practice stalling.

As the price of land increases the condition of the manner of farming must change, provided, of course, one was to make interest on the money value of the land.

Cotton seed meal used in small amounts with a bunch of feeding cattle almost invariably serves to make better gain at a smaller cost than the straight corn feeding.

A bone cutter will surely pay for itself. Green cut bone supplies the hen with ability to produce eggs, nourishes her feathers and keeps her in general good health.

The young chicks which are to make our winter layers should be hatched from the middle of March to the middle of May, depending on the breed.

When a man does not mind the blast of a sheep that wants more feed, spit or water he has not the true spirit of the shepherd. Neither is he worthy of the name of shepherd if he does not do at once those things which should be attended to; but says he will do them tomorrow or some other day.

Alfalfa is a perennial.
A pure bred bull is best.
Mongrel fowls are expensive.
Light in the barn is essential.
Horses with tender feet need much attention.
The wheel hoe saves a lot of back-breaking hoeing.
Good roads increase values because they make values.
Good pasture is invaluable in growing pigs successfully.
Cut straw is the best for bedding. If you save the manure.
If zinc is burned with the coal it will clear the chimney of soot.
Are the play-lays sharp, and all the tools in first-class shape?
Two liters of pigs a year is about what the best sows will do.
He that abuses his colts may expect to be kicked by his horses.
Sifted coal ashes are better than plaster for the striped squash bug.
Jerking the bit and yelling confuse a horse and advertise a blackhead.
Out-buildings, unpainted fences and rubbish heaps may be hidden behind vines.
Equal parts of corn and oats are hard to excel as a grain feed for sheep.
Provide plenty of pure water, sunshine, range and green forage crops for sheep.
A flock that gets bone meal and oyster shell will have few cases of leg weakness.
Look out for the yearling colts. Don't let them get a setback as spring approaches.
Sore mouth will sometimes attack sheep in pens and run through the entire flock.
During an extra cold spell of weather add a little corn to the sow's grain ration.
Small seeds and finely cracked grain are a better feed for the small chick than wet mashies.
Never breed a nervous, high-strung sow that is ready to jump and run at the drop of a hat.
The fewer sows kept together during the breeding season and until farrowing time, the better.
Of all fowls ducks are the easiest to raise. The eggs are more fertile than those of any other fowl.
Cold weather is not much of a detriment to chickens, providing it is dry and the atmosphere pure.
The geese should be laying at their best now, and this is, also, the month in which turkeys begin to lay.
For the majority of vegetables, soil of a sandy nature is best, provided there is a good sub-soil for drainage.
Oatmeal, rolled oats, hard-boiled eggs or stale bread soaked in milk and squeezed dry are excellent chick ration.
If all the implements were cleaned and put away last fall, a great deal of time will be saved when you must "get busy."
A good way to disinfect a brooder is to open it wide, take out the hovey and let the sun get at the inside through the day.
Making the drinking water slightly red with permanganate of potash has often been found to prevent the spreading of roup.
A good way to test a chick food is to place a small quantity on a dish before some husky chicks and note what they leave of it.
A 100-egg brooder may be large enough for 100 chicks when first hatched, but it will not be many days before that number will crowd it.
Encourage the pigs to exercise by putting the feed some little distance from the sleeping quarters, if it can not be done in any other manner.
Poultry manure should be partially dried before storing in order to prevent fermentation setting in, thus avoiding the escape of the ammonia.
Look out for a collar that rubs a half of flesh at every stride of the horse. It is liable to wear a gill on his neck, and much sooner sometimes than suspected.
One of the greatest mistakes made by many owners is the frantic attempt to produce draft stock from light mares at first cross with big stallions.
There is no better or cheaper way of growing hogs than to pasture them on alfalfa. One acre will furnish pasture for from ten to twenty hogs per season.
An old horseman says that the chief cause of colic in horses, or the cause of the largest per cent of these cases, is brought through long abstinence from water.
Men of moderate means should start the improvement of their cattle through the purchase of a pure bred bull and gradually grow into the breeding of pure bred animals.
No one can afford to raise pigs that refuse to fatten or that are frequently off feed. In this case the correction may often be made before the pigs are farrowed. It is very apt to lie with the handling of the brood sow.
To make alfalfa hay cut in the forenoon and let it wilt, then rake into windrows. It should be cured in windrows and cocks, and stacked and put in barns with as little handling as possible before the valuable leaves become too dry and brittle.
The garden with a row of trees or some shrubbery along the north side is a good thing in the spring, but in dry countries this earliness may be paid for later. Trees along the edge of a garden are apt to sap the moisture for a long distance on either side.

WHO IS BACKING CAMPAIGNS OF TAFT AND ROOSEVELT?

That Enormous Sum of Money Are Being Spent Is Apparent, and Citizens Have a Right to Learn the Source.

By all means let the house bill compelling a publicity of pre-nomination expenditures of presidential candidates be passed.

Especially in the campaign now on, which holds so many candidates who proclaim they are running in response to the people's demand, it is desirable to know who is putting up the sinews of war.

The cost of the Roosevelt campaign in New York county was over $50,000, or nearly four dollars a vote. And he lost out at that. A short time ago the total cost of his campaign thus far was estimated at $100,000.

If we accept the colonel's interpretation of the significance of his candidacy this money is being spent to permit the people to express their overwhelming desire to nominate him.

All right. Let him spend as much as he likes, if he spends it legitimately. But who is putting up?

Mr. Roosevelt has no million to spend on his campaign, not even the $50,000 which, according to legal record, he dumped into New York county alone. Then who is putting up?

Is it Perkins, Munsey or McCormick, or some other of his trust friends who are boosting the Roosevelt campaign? Or are the plain people, nursing with their pennies to enjoy the salvation of another Roosevelt administration?

The Taft managers, undoubtedly, are spending money, too. Money has always been spent in these campaigns. The people have a right to know where the Taft money comes from.

But the agents of the president have yet to be charged with "spending money like drunken sailors" as were the agents of the colonel in Indianapolis.

It may be recalled at this time that George W. Perkins in 1904 contributed $50,000 to the Roosevelt campaign in behalf of the New York Life insurance company. He can't do that now, but what he is giving and how he is giving it should be known to the citizens who are asked to vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

If the nation is to have publicity of campaign contributions, it is fully as important that it has them for the primaries and other pre-nominations as for the election proper.—Exchange.

Safely Within the Law.
Mr. G. T. Perkins contributed $15,000 to Theodore Roosevelt's New York campaign for delegates, and there were other large contributions, but it is not charged that any of the money was used corruptly. It costs a lot of money to make the kind of a campaign to make the presidential candidates are making, and as yet congress has not put any limitations on such expenditures.

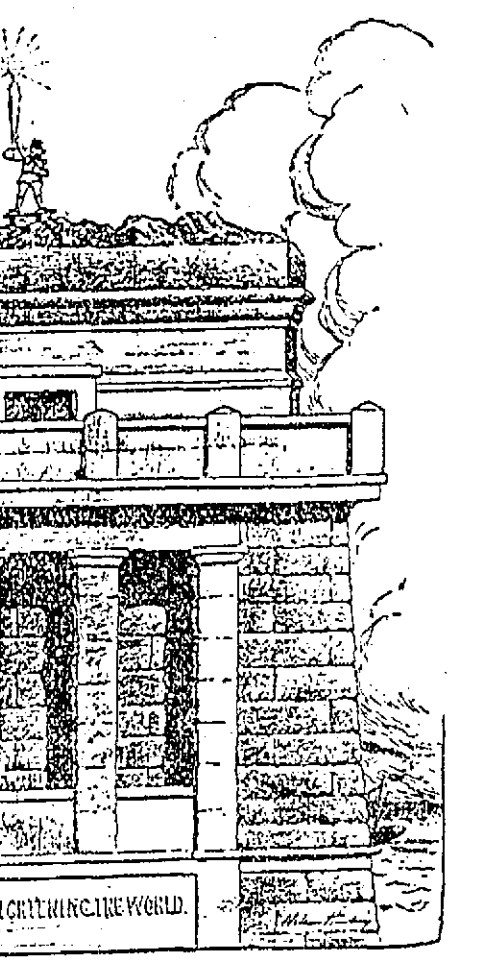

Colonel's Costly Campaign.
Commenting on the use of money by the Roosevelt management, Chairman McKinley of the Taft committee said: "When the senate investigated the charges made against Senator Stephen A. Bland before the primary amounted to a little less than two dollars a vote. It now develops that the campaign in the interest of Roosevelt before the New York primaries, which elected delegates to the national convention, required the expenditure of four dollars a vote."

Double Burden on the People.
The conclusion reached by the investigators who have been working on the wool schedule is that many of its rates are prohibitive and that the cost of producing wool and woolen goods is higher in the United States than in any other country. Naturally, the consumer carries a burden caused in part by actual differences in the wool schedule, and in part by the result of excessive tariff barriers against the importation of wool and woolens.

Wonder Who Is Meant?
In declaring that "the Democratic party is greater than any one man," Governor Harmon meant, of course, greater than any one Democrat. He had no reference to the man who is greater than any and all parties, friendships, pledges and precedents.—Kansas City Journal.

The Paying Speculators.
Colonel Roosevelt says he relies on the "bleachers," but most of the gate receipts seem to come from the boxes and the grandstand.

He can't do that now, but what he is giving and how he is giving it should be known to the citizens who are asked to vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

If the nation is to have publicity of campaign contributions, it is fully as important that it has them for the primaries and other pre-nominations as for the election proper.—Exchange.

Safely Within the Law.
Mr. G. T. Perkins contributed $15,000 to Theodore Roosevelt's New York campaign for delegates, and there were other large contributions, but it is not charged that any of the money was used corruptly. It costs a lot of money to make the kind of a campaign to make the presidential candidates are making, and as yet congress has not put any limitations on such expenditures.

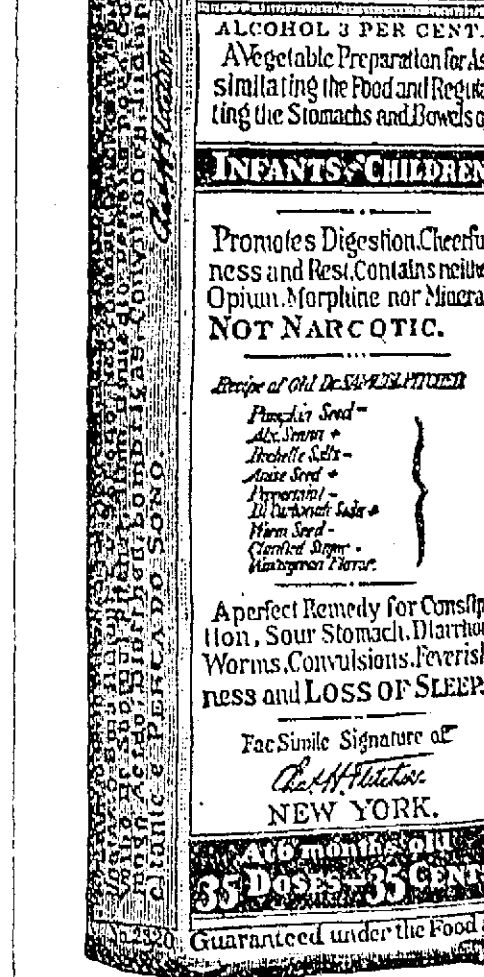

Colonel's Costly Campaign.
Commenting on the use of money by the Roosevelt management, Chairman McKinley of the Taft committee said: "When the senate investigated the charges made against Senator Stephen A. Bland before the primary amounted to a little less than two dollars a vote. It now develops that the campaign in the interest of Roosevelt before the New York primaries, which elected delegates to the national convention, required the expenditure of four dollars a vote."

Double Burden on the People.
The conclusion reached by the investigators who have been working on the wool schedule is that many of its rates are prohibitive and that the cost of producing wool and woolen goods is higher in the United States than in any other country. Naturally, the consumer carries a burden caused in part by actual differences in the wool schedule, and in part by the result of excessive tariff barriers against the importation of wool and woolens.

Wonder Who Is Meant?
In declaring that "the Democratic party is greater than any one man," Governor Harmon meant, of course, greater than any one Democrat. He had no reference to the man who is greater than any and all parties, friendships, pledges and precedents.—Kansas City Journal.

The Paying Speculators.
Colonel Roosevelt says he relies on the "bleachers," but most of the gate receipts seem to come from the boxes and the grandstand.

THE SUBSTITUTE.

LET THE PEOPLE KNOW BACK TO THE RIGHT CHANNEL

Privilege of the Democratic Party is to Restore a Safe and Sane Government.

WHO IS BACKING CAMPAIGNS OF TAFT AND ROOSEVELT?

That Enormous Sum of Money Are Being Spent Is Apparent, and Citizens Have a Right to Learn the Source.

By all means let the house bill compelling a publicity of pre-nomination expenditures of presidential candidates be passed.

Especially in the campaign now on, which holds so many candidates who proclaim they are running in response to the people's demand, it is desirable to know who is putting up the sinews of war.

The cost of the Roosevelt campaign in New York county was over $50,000, or nearly four dollars a vote. And he lost out at that. A short time ago the total cost of his campaign thus far was estimated at $100,000.

If we accept the colonel's interpretation of the significance of his candidacy this money is being spent to permit the people to express their overwhelming desire to nominate him.

All right. Let him spend as much as he likes, if he spends it legitimately. But who is putting up?

Mr. Roosevelt has no million to spend on his campaign, not even the $50,000 which, according to legal record, he dumped into New York county alone. Then who is putting up?

Is it Perkins, Munsey or McCormick, or some other of his trust friends who are boosting the Roosevelt campaign? Or are the plain people, nursing with their pennies to enjoy the salvation of another Roosevelt administration?

The Taft managers, undoubtedly, are spending money, too. Money has always been spent in these campaigns. The people have a right to know where the Taft money comes from.

But the agents of the president have yet to be charged with "spending money like drunken sailors" as were the agents of the colonel in Indianapolis.

Taft and Roosevelt.

"You lie," says Roosevelt to President Taft. "Your statements are false," says the president. Meanwhile the country looks on disgustedly at one of the most disgraceful controversies ever indulged in by men of high standing. It is the first time in the history of the American republic that a president has so far lost his dignity and self respect as to get out and indulge in personalities. It is also the first time that an American has broken a precedent and come out openly seeking the presidency for the third time.

Neither Roosevelt or Taft are deserving of the honors that have been given them. Recent incidents have proved that neither measures up to the standard of American citizenship; they are not worthy. The people of the country have become disgusted with the whole affair and they are ready to vote for any other rather than for Roosevelt or Taft. The republican party is split from top to bottom. The disruption caused by the Taft-Roosevelt controversy has done more to bring about the fall of the republican party than any other factor.

Expensive for Everyone.

Uncle Joe Cannon announced in congress Saturday that he had drawn $250,000 for salary and perquisites since he has been a member of the lower house, and that his expenses have been half a million dollars for the same period. He declared that the only way he had been able to make both ends meet was by drawing upon the income of his farm in Illinois. Moved almost to tears by the publication of this and situation, the house of representatives decided not to reduce the traveling fee of members from twenty cents to five cents per mile. The statement of Uncle Joe shows that it would have been better for everyone had he never entered politics. It has proven a heavy burden upon his own resources, and no one will question that he has been a great trial to the country at large. The great puzzle now is, why did he stay in congress so long? He forgot to explain that.

Protecting Cattle From Flies.

Prof. G. C. Humphrey, Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

The annoyance of animals by flies is one of the unpleasant features of the summer time for cattlemen, especially dairymen. Men are continually seeking information and a means for overcoming this annoyance. To accomplish this, however, is one of the perplexing problems for which no entirely satisfactory solution has been found. Darkening the stables by covering the windows with coarse muslin or dark colored paper and at the same time providing for the circulation of plenty of fresh air affords relief to cattle from flies while in the barn at milking time. On extremely hot days where pastures are not provided with good shade, it undoubtedly would be best to put the cows into the barn several hours prior to milking time, which not only protects them from flies, but also from the hot sun.

Temporary relief from flies is to be found in applying fly repellents which are offered on the market, and which cost in the neighborhood of $1 per gallon. The following list of fly repellents, together with the companies manufacturing them, has been secured more or less at the University farm.

"Conkey's Fly Knocker" Conkey Mfg. Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

"So-It-So" Chas. H. Ohlits, Utica, New York.

"Shoo Fly" Shoo Fly Mfg. Co., 3120 N. 10th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

"Flyeno" American Glutroene Co., Oakland, New Jersey.

"Fly Remover" Ripley Hardware Co., Grafton, Ill.

"Will Kill Flies" Kereka-Mower Co., Utica, New York.

"Fly Oil" Dr. David Roberts, Waukesha, Wis.

Temporary relief for a few hours is all that any of these will accomplish. Spraying the cows with a spray pump immediately after they have come to the stable may be practiced, but may taint the milk with the odor of the spray; and if the stable is darkened it is perhaps a better plan to spray only when the cows leave the barn for the pasture. The relief which any one of these sprays renders cows undoubtedly makes an investment in these fly repellents worth while and to be recommended.

Some stockmen have used preparations of their own, which they claim to be as effective and much cheaper than those named above. Mixing equal parts of some of the coal tar products and kerosene oil has been practiced and recommended by one of our practical stockmen. This would reduce the cost of the repellent nearly 60 per cent, and would at least be worth trying.

NEKOOSA

A bad wreck occurred on the St. Paul road, in Nekoosa, about 11 o'clock Friday morning, last, but fortunately no one was injured. As local way freight No. 91 was coming around the loop, and when just opposite the Lutheran church, two cars were derailed and badly twisted around. One car was thrown down the embankment, on the one side, with one end of the car across the track; the other car was picked up bodily and hurled down the embankment on the other side, at least ten feet from the track.

On Wednesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGargle, a shower was held in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Edith Lynn (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lynn) to Mr. Saecker of Grand Rapids. Light refreshments were served and a general good time was enjoyed by all. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received.

A bad accident occurred in the Loop last Tuesday afternoon, about five o'clock, the unfortunate man being Steve Ostosapach, head fireman at the Nekoosa-Edwards paper mill. Mr. Ostosapach was crossing the alley near the Bentz hotel when he was struck by a runaway team and knocked unconscious. When those who were near reached the injured man he was as dead as he will be when he is laid out for burial. Dr. Pomatvish reached him about as soon as any one, and had him carried to his room in the hotel, where he administered restoratives and after a time brought him to consciousness. An examination resulted in the discovery of two broken ribs, a badly bruised and battered back, chest badly damaged, more or less internal injuries, in fact bruised and battered all over. At this writing, Monday evening, he was able to partially raise himself in bed and was improving very satisfactorily.

Goodbye to the blueberry if an experiment which will be made in Grant county proves a success. When Louis Palm, of Washburn, returned from Sweden he brought with him about 2,000 plants of a new berry which he will plant on his farm and attempt to make a success of their cultivation. They are called the Lingon berry and grow very similar to the native blueberry, and are claimed to be far superior as table fruit. It is said by experienced gardeners in Sweden that the climate in this section of the country is all right for the growth of the berry and a practical test will be made.—Tommah Journal.

Winnipeg Record Herald:—Saturday night Deputy State Game Warden J. W. Foster of this city and W. A. Cole of Vesper went to the town of Day and investigated a report of illegal fishing in a small tributary of the Little Eau Claire river, the only trout stream in that vicinity. As a result five nets were confiscated and Nick Zingheim, Theo. Koggenhauer, Mathias Petrie and John K. Thilo were notified to appear before Justice R. N. Lerner in this city on Tuesday to answer to charges of having netted fish in that stream. They did not appear and warrants were issued. The four men were arrested by Under-sheriff Abraham and brought into court late yesterday afternoon. Each pleaded guilty to the offense and a fine of $25.00 and costs was assessed against each. All have made arrangements to pay.

This morning Deputies Foster and Cole arrested Frank Wanta of Callon on a similar charge, his offense being alleged to have occurred at Pike Lake on the night of April 30. Wanta made a clean breast of the whole affair and was also fined $25.00 and costs.

Ed. Klock of Callon was arrested this forenoon on a charge of having fished illegally with a net in the inland waters of the state. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Justice Lerner, claiming the wrong lake was named in the complaint, but later thought better of it and changed his plea to guilty. He was fined $25.00 and costs.

D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, judgment will be rendered against you and your property sold to pay the debt.

Dated this 10th day of May, 1914. Albert E. Helms, Plaintiff. By W. E. Wheelan, Attorney.

FRED BEELL INJURED IN BOUT WITH BOHEMIAN

Chicago, Ill., May 9.—Fred Beell, the crack little Wisconsin wrestler, today is suffering from torn ligaments in his right shoulder, the result of his wrestling match with Smekal in Sokol-Oleczko hall last night. For thirty minutes the giant Bohemian and Beell tussled away, Freddie showing the cleaner work. Growing angry because of his failure to handle the speedy and nimble little Beell, Smekal lost his goat and rushed Fred into the chairs on the stage. When the referee brought them back to the center of the mat Beell could not continue. A physician was called and ordered Beell to quit. Under the agreement Smekal wins the match, but Beell demands a return go.

Boys and Girls!

What are you going to do when you grow up?

Are you going to be your own boss or work for someone else?

Will you be independent and have your own home, or will you be one of the many who just scrape along and manage to make both ends meet?

It all depends on you.

Nearly all of the great men of this country began to prepare for success when they were young like you.

The first step is to save what you earn and are given. The folks at home will be glad to help you.

Then when the time comes for you to go to college, or start out for yourself, you will be equipped for the fight.

Every penny you save now puts you that much ahead of the boy and girl who does not save.

Children's accounts are always welcome at this bank, no matter how small.

If You Were an Expert, What Car Would You Buy

The time has passed when automobiles can be sold to you on their appearances or claims. This is a day when you and every purchaser must be shown what the car for which you pay your money will actually perform; what it will do. Beware of an automobile salesman who attempts to beguile you with a pleasing story. Tell him to show the goods and prove to you that his cars are worth the money. Find out whether his car is a real car or only an assembled automobile built to sell.

You have a right to your money's worth, but it is up to you to see that you get it. Deeper than all appearances, there are a few expert tests which ought to be applied to every car.

Who makes the car? Is it an assembled car or made from top to bottom by one manufacturer? What kind of a guarantee is on it? Does the manufacturer respect his own product with a real guarantee, or does he want you to take the chance? What do parts cost you and how conveniently can you get them? How many cars of this make are in service and how many are giving satisfaction? Questions like these go deep into the heart of the case, and if you put them rigorously upon any car you will find out with a certainty whether or not that car is worth its price.

We are selling Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars because we know that, dollar for dollar, their equal is not sold in the market today. The records of many thousands of cars in all kinds of service have convinced us absolutely. Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars are built to run, and because they run they sell. If we cannot prove to you under the most searching test that Studebaker cars are absolutely the best automobile values in the market, we do not want your business; but we can prove it, and your neighbors who drive these cars will tell you the same thing.

Be an expert when it comes to buying a car. You can, by getting from us some further ideas on real tests of an automobile. Write us because we have something new to tell you which you ought to know, whatever car you have in mind.

In the Book of Ruth.
Antigo Journal.—Many beautiful tributes have been written to the various heroes of the Titanic, but a quotation from the bible, which an exchange used in referring to Mrs. Stranahan, who went down with her husband, is one that touched us most profoundly. It is just a simple quotation, but it fits the condition so beautifully that we give it here, with:

In the Book of Ruth it is written:
"Entreat me not to leave thee; to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

"Where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried, and I will be as thou art."

Many centuries after, in a far different civilization, with a bitterer lot to share, another "Ruth" said, "Where thou diest will I die and there will I be buried."

The Path the Calf Made.

One day, through the primordial wood, A calf walked home, as good calves should,

But made a trail all bent askew—
A crooked trail, as all calves do.

Since then two hundred years have fled
And, I infer, the calf is dead;

But still he left behind his trail—
And thereby hangs a moral tale.

The trail was taken up next day.
By a lone dog that passed that way.

And then a wise old weather sheep
Parused the trail over vale and steep.

And drew a flock behind him, too,
As good bell-weather sheep always do.

And from that day, o'er hill and glade
Through those old woods a path was made.

And many men wound in and out
And dodged and turned and bent about.

And uttered words of righteous wrath
Because 'twas such a crooked path;

But still they followed—do not laugh—
The first migration of that calf.

And through the winding woodway stalked
Because he wobbled when he walked.

This forest path became a lane
That bent and turned and turned again.

This crooked lane became a road
Where many a poor horse, with his load,

Toiled on beneath the burning sun
And traveled some three miles in one;

And thus a century and a half
They trod the footsteps of that calf.

The years passed on in swiftest fleet,
The road became a village street;

And this, before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare.

And soon the central street was this
Of a renowned metropolis.

And men two centuries and a half
Trod in the footsteps of that calf.

Each day a hundred thousand rout
Followed the zigzag calf about;

And o'er his crooked journey went
The traffic of a continent.

A hundred thousand men were led
By one calf near three centuries dead.

They followed still his crooked way.
And lost one hundred years a day;

For such high reverence is lent
To well established precedent.

—Samuel Walter Poos.

The Typhoid or House Fly.

State Entomologist Washburn, in co-operation with the Minnesota board of health, is urging the importance of early measures to prevent the multiplication of that disease breeding pest, the housefly.

In the early spring, the flies are comparatively few. But "One pair in April means millions in August," hence the desirability of an early killing.

Remember that the fly breeds in horse manure; in almost any moist filth, in garbage and similar material. Where there is no filth there are no flies.

But a single filthy farm yard may breed flies enough to infect a whole village with disease, the germs of which are carried on their feet.

These germs may be those of typhoid, dysentery, consumption or cholera; and the fly may have come directly from the source of infection, to deposit them on our food, on the nipple of the baby's bottle, or on our spoons and forks.

Fly borne germs thus caused the death of 5,000 American soldiers during the Spanish war.

The first of measures to secure a flyless village is a thorough cleaning up of a refuse heap, filth of all kinds, manure piles, garbage, old cans, bottles, vaults and earth closets.

Meanwhile put screens on all doors and windows. See that all will barrels and garbage cans are tightly closed. A spray composed of 8 ounces arsenite of soda, dissolved in 20 gallons of water, to which one pint of cheap molasses has been added, may be effectively used upon manure heaps. (Keep chickens away from this.)

Another poison, safe and effective, is made by adding 3 teaspoonsful of formalin to a pint measure of half milk and half water. This might be placed in a Mason fruit jar inverted in a shallow dish, and so arranged as to feed the fluid to the dish as fast as needed; or it might be poured into an open dish and placed wherever flies gather. To be kept out of reach of children.

The Hedge Out-Door Fly exterminator, baited with bread and milk, is recommended as the most effective of traps. It can be had of all leading hardware men.

Cleanliness, poison, the trap. This is the hygienic inviolate which is some day to give us the victory over the typhoid fly.—C. R. Barnes.

Notice To Bidders For Water Main On Oak Street.
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Public Works of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, will receive sealed bids for the furnishing of all the materials, implements, tools, etc., and all the labor and services necessary to construct a water main on Oak Street in the City of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, between Twelfth Street and Sixteenth Street, a distance of thirty-two hundred and twenty (3200) feet. The said water main to be laid at the one time in the same ditch as the sewer pipe, strictly according to the plans and specifications for the same which are now on file in the office of the City Engineer in the Library building in said City of Grand Rapids.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Public Works up to and including the 23rd day of May, 1912, at one o'clock in the forenoon. All bids shall be enclosed in an envelope securely sealed, and be addressed as follows: City of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, to the Board of Public Works, Library Building, Grand Rapids, Wis.

Proposals for furnishing material, etc., for water main on Oak Street, and the same of the Board of Public Works, will be received by the City Clerk, any time prior to the 23rd day of May, 1912, at one o'clock in the forenoon. A certified check for ten per cent of the proposed bid shall be paid to the City Clerk, and the balance of the bid shall be payable to the order of M. G. Gordon, City Clerk of the City of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, as evidence of the good faith of the bidder. If bid is not accepted, check will be returned to the bidder.

Check will be returned to the bidder in an amount equal to the amount of the proposal.

A contract for the work will be drawn without expense to the bidder by the City Attorney and will provide in detail the time, place, manner and method of furnishing all materials, implements, tools, etc., except water pipe, which will be furnished by the City of Grand Rapids, and all the labor and services necessary to do all of said work strictly according to the plans and specifications hereinafore referred to and to the satisfaction of the City Engineer and Superintendent of the Water Works of said City.

Payments will be made on the estimate of the City Engineer from time to time to thirty per cent of the amount of the material furnished and all labor and services performed at time of estimate until work is finally completed and accepted by the City Engineer, and the balance of the amount of the contract shall be paid by the City of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, when the balance shall be paid. The city reserves the right to buy the water pipe and to reject any and all bids.

Dated this 23rd day of April, 1912.
M. G. Gordon, Mayor.
George W. Davis, Clerk.
J. J. Jernsey, Alderman,
Board of Public Works.

The Crusades.

[The Fiscal Crusades, 1000-1009 by Mrs. Hoskinson]

Their first encounter with the Turks took place at Dorylneum, and ended in a victory but thousands were slaughtered, and died of privation and many more lost their horses. Next Antioch was besieged, and taken after many months.

Here after the victory of the Crusaders, a musketeer army gathered from different parts of the East besieged Antioch, and the crusaders were apparently on the eve of extinction, when they were saved by a revival of the enthusiastic spirit, in which their undertaking had originated.

It was declared that the steel head of the lance, that pierced the Savior's side was found under the altar of the church of St. Peter, and the crusaders made it an assurance of that victory, which they won soon after, the Mussulman forces being destroyed, and driven off.

Their march was then resumed upon Jerusalem. Having reached Joppa two days later, the crusaders came in sight of the Holy City, the object of their long pilgrimage, and the cause of death to millions.

As their eyes rested on the city, they were met by the asceticism of their faith, the crusaders passed in an instant, from fierce enthusiasm to sighs and tears. All fell on their knees to kiss the sacred earth, and to pour forth the feelings that they had suffered to behold the desire of their eyes.

Putting aside their armor, and their weapons, they advanced in pilgrim's garb, and with bare feet towards the spot, which the Savior had trodden, in the hours of his agony and his passions.

Singing the words of the prophet "Jerusalem lift up thine eyes and behold the liberator who comes to break thy chains."

But now there was other work to be done before their feelings of devotion could be indulged.

Their chiefs took up their posts on these sides from which the nature of the ground, gave most hope of a successful assault. On the southern side were Godfrey, and Tancred, Robert of Flanders, and Robert of Normandy, on the west Raymond with his Provencals.

On the fifth day with only one ladder the crusaders made a desperate attack upon the walls. Some succeeded in reaching the summit, and the very rashness of their attack struck terror for a moment to their enemies.

But the garrison soon rallied, and the invaders were all driven back, or hurled from the ramparts.

They were obliged to desist from the attack, and to prepare siege engines, for which (to obtain the things they went to Sicily, a distance of fifty miles.

They suffered dreadfully for water, as the enemy had carefully destroyed every place, where they might have found a receptacle of water. Robert of Flanders, however, and they were again roused to enthusiasm by his preaching.

The narrative of the siege of Jerusalem in the book of Josiah suggested probably the procession around the walls of Jerusalem, in which the crusaders sang hymns, and the banners on the ramparts, mocked their devotions, by throwing out at their enemies, but they paid no heed to these insults.

On the next day the final assault began and was carried on through the day with the same brute force and courage, and the night brought no rest.

In the midst of that deadly struggle when it seemed that the Cross must all go down, before the crescent a Knight was seen on Mount Olivet waving his standard, and shouting the words of the Holy Scripture, to the supreme effort. "It is St. George the Martyr who has come again to help us," cried Godfrey and at his words the crusaders started up without a feeling of fatigue, and carried everything before them.

St. George (the Patron Saint of England) was believed under Diocletian. He was by profession a soldier, of high military rank, and is mentioned among the martyrs, whom the Roman church venerates. He is said to have successfully fought with them and was beheaded for his faith in Christianity.

His popularity dates from the crusades when his aid was said to have been successfully invoked. His name is much revered to all the Oriental churches as a Christian Martyr. In the time of Edward III he was made the patron of the City of England.

The day we were told was Friday the hour was three in the afternoon, the moment at which the last cry announced the accomplishment of the great business of the crusades. The day was the first victorious campaign of the Crus on the walls of Jerusalem. Next to him we were told was his brother King Robert, the third was Godfrey, Tancred, and the two Roberts, who were the sons of St. Stephen, the Provencals climbed the ramparts by ladders, and the conquest of Jerusalem was achieved.

The Muslims offered a little while ago, to the crusaders, were ordered by Godfrey's orders) by the musketeers of the crusades.

The Crusaders were all burnt alive in their synagogues. The horses of the Crusaders, who rode up to the porch of the Temple, were according to tradition, up to their knees in the molten metal, and the Christian Knights were all burnt to death.

From the duties of slaughter the crusaders passed to those of devotion.

They were all barefooted, clad in a robe of pure white linen, in an ecstasy of joy, and thankfulness, mingled with a profound contrition, Godfrey entered the church of the Holy Sepulchre, and knelt at the tomb of his Lord. With groans and tears, his followers came, each in his turn, to offer his prayers, for the divine mercy, which had vouchsafed this victory, to the armies of Christianity, and enabled them to destroy the enemies of God, and they vowed to live in the service of God.

As the saluts had arisen from their graves, when the Son of God gave up the Ghoron Calvary, so the spirits of the pilgrims, who had died on the terrible journey, came to take part in the great thanksgiving. Foremost among them was Agnes of Troy, who rejoiced in their prayers for forgiveness, and their resolutions of penitence. The assembled throng fell down upon their knees, and they all thanked God for his mercy, and for the victory which he had given to them.

The butchery, however, went on the next day, old and young, decrepit men, and women, mothers with their infants, boys and girls, young men and maidens, all were mowed down and their bodies mangled, until heads and limbs were tossed together in an awful chaos.

The streets were washed by the Saracen prisoners, Godfrey was elected to the sovereignty of Jerusalem. He hung the sword, and standard, of the Sultan, before the Holy Sepulchre, and set out on their homeward journey, retaining only 2000 soldiers for the defense of his Kingdom. The government which they established was a sort of feudal league known as "The Latin Kingdom of Jerusalem." Godfrey refused the title of Prince and the vestments of royalty, declaring that he would never wear a crown of gold in the city where his Lord and Master had worn a crown of thorns.

The only title he would accept was that of "Defender of the Holy Sepulchre." So ended the first act in the great drama of the Crusades.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Screen alfalfa seed.
Destroy the little weeds.
Good dairymen keep no dogs.
Horses can be pastured on alfalfa.
The right kind of seed is half the crop.
Kill the small weeds and there will be no big ones.
Chicks raised in brooders are not bothered with lice.
Grass was never more welcome to cows than this spring.
Broiler prices are somewhat better than they were last month.
It is well to assume when chickens are dying that the disease is contagious.
Put a slatted frame over the drinking trough and the water will be kept clean.
The early spring chicken catches the good price. Raise early spring chickens.
Plant good seeds. Poor seeds are dear, so difference what price you pay for them.
Get the incubator at work on the broiler crop as early as possible. Delay means loss.
No incubator can make good hatches from poor eggs, that is, those lacking in fertility.
More incubator hatches are spoiled by the anxiety of the operator than from any other one cause.
Lard, vasoline and enough sulphur to make a paste makes a good remedy for sorehead in chicks.
Vegetables delight in having a warm, deep, rich and mellow soil, and will pay generously for the privilege.
Lice feed on the young chickens—that is one great reason that they fail to make the growth they should.
Carefulness in dressing poultry pays for the extra pains taken. The plum feathers must all be removed.
There is genuine satisfaction in owning thoroughbred stock and they cost no more to feed. Go in for the best.
Worry along without a crap nest, but keep your eyes open for the best layers, and set their eggs next spring.
A little ground charcoal mixed with the chicks' feed now and then will help keep away digestive troubles.
Three rules for success in gardening are: Freedom from weeds, thinning out, and keeping the ground mellow.
With reasonably good seed and a fairly well prepared seed bed, about 20 pounds of alfalfa seed is required per acre.
If the breeders are in poor condition you will get many eggs that do not hatch well and that produce puny chickens.
A box of lime, earth and ashes is welcome by the fowls. They need a dust bath even when the snow is still in the yards.
It is claimed by some onion growers that carbolic acid emulsion gives satisfactory results in fighting the onion maggot.
Nitrate of soda is the most quickly available source of nitrogen for plants, but buyers should steer clear of low grade nitrate.
Crimson clover makes fairly good ensilage, but, like all plants rich in protein, it develops a strong and rather objectionable odor.
A tight wire fence around your garden will do more to promote harmony between neighbors who keep chickens than anything else.
Strongly fertile eggs from good healthy stock will often hatch well and produce good chickens under unfavorable conditions.
Government reports state that more up-to-date agricultural machinery has been sold the last ten years than during any previous ten years.
It is not safe to pasture either cattle or sheep on alfalfa, as they are liable to bloat when it is fed green. Feed them the hay or practice soiling.
As the price of land increases the condition of the manner of farming must change, provided, of course, one has to make interest on the money value of the land.
Cotton seed meal used in small amounts with a bunch of feeding cattle almost invariably serves to make better gain at a smaller cost than the straight corn feeding.
A bone cutter will surely pay for itself. Green cut bone supplies the hen with ability to produce eggs, nourishes her feathers and keeps her in general good health.
The young chicks which are to make our winter layers should be hatched from the middle of March to the middle of May, depending on the breed.
When a man does not mind the bleat of a sheep that wants more feed, salt or water he has not the true spirit of the shepherd. Neither is he worthy of the name of shepherd who does not do at once those things which should be attended to, but says he will do them tomorrow or some other day.

Alfalfa is a perennial.
A pure bred bull is best.
Mongrel fowls are expensive.
Light in the barn is essential.
Horses with leader feet need much attention.
The wheel hoe saves a lot of back-breaking hoeing.
Good roads increase values because they make values.
Good pasture is invaluable in growing pigs successfully.
Cut straw is the best for bedding, if you save the manure.
If zinc is burned with the coal it will clear the chimney of soot.
Are the plow-boys sharp, and all the tools in first-class shape?
Two liters of pigs a year is about what the best sows will do.
He that abuses his colts may expect to be kicked by his horses.
Sifted coal ashes are better than plaster for the striped squash bug.
Jerking the bit and yelling confuse a horse and advertise a blockhead.
Out-buildings, unpainted fences and rubbish heaps may be hidden behind vines.
Equal parts of corn and oats are hard to excel as a grain feed for sheep.
Provide plenty of pure water, sunshine, range and green forage crops for sheep.
A flock that gets bone meal and oyster shell will have few cases of leg weakness.
Look out for the yearling colts. Don't let them get a setback as spring approaches.
Sore mouth will sometimes attack sheep in pens and run through the entire flock.
During an extra cold spell of weather add a little corn to the sow's grain ration.
Small seeds and finely cracked grain are a better feed for the small chick than wet mashies.
Never breed a nervous, high-strung sow that is ready to jump and run at the drop of a hat.
The fewer sows kept together during the breeding season and until farrowing time, the better.
Of all fowls ducks are the easiest to raise. The eggs are more fertile than those of any other fowl.
Cold weather is not much of a detriment to chickens, providing it is dry and the atmosphere pure.
The geese should be laying at their best now, and this is also, the month in which turkeys begin to lay.
For the majority of vegetables, soil of a sandy nature is best, provided there is a good sub-soil for drainage.
Oatmeal, rolled oats, hard-boiled eggs or stale bread soaked in milk and squeezed dry are excellent chick rations.
If all the implements were cleaned and painted last fall, a great deal of time will be saved when you must "get busy."

A good way to disinfect a brooder is to open it wide, take out the cover and let the sun get at the inside through the day.
Making the drinking water slightly red with permanganate of potash has often been found to prevent the spreading of roup.
A good way to test a chick feed is to place a small quantity on a dish before some husky chicks and note what they leave off it.
A 100-egg brooder may be large enough for 100 chicks when first hatched, but it will not be many days before that number will crowd it.
Encourage the pigs to exercise by putting the feed some little distance from the sleeping quarters. If it can't be done in any other manner.
Poultry manure should be partially dried before storing in order to prevent fermentation setting in, thus avoiding the escape of the ammonia.
Look out for a collar that rubs a lap of flesh at every stride of the horse. It is liable to wear a gall on his neck, and much sooner sometimes than suspected.
One of the greatest mistakes made by mare owners is the frantic attempt to produce draft stock from light mares at first cross with big stallions.
There is no better or cheaper way of growing hogs than to pasture them on alfalfa. One acre will furnish pasture for from ten to twenty hogs per season.
An old horseman says that the chief cause of colic in horses, or the cause of it brought through long abstinence from water.
Men of moderate means should start the improvement of their cattle through the purchase of a pure bred bull and gradually grade into the breeding of pure bred animals.
No one can afford to raise pigs that refuse to fatten or that are frequently off feed. In this case the correction may often be made before the pigs are farrowed. It is very apt to lie with the handling of the brood sow.
To make alfalfa hay out in the forenoon and let it wilt; then rake into windrows. It should be cured, in windrows and cocks, and stacked and put in barns with as little handling as possible before the valuable leaves become too dry and brittle.
The garden with a row of trees or some shrubbery along the north wall and let it wilt; then rake into windrows. It should be cured, in windrows and cocks, and stacked and put in barns with as little handling as possible before the valuable leaves become too dry and brittle.
Some days earlier in the spring but in dry countries this earliness may be paid for later. Trees along the edge of a garden are apt to sap the moisture for a long distance on either side.

LET THE PEOPLE KNOW

WHO IS BACKING CAMPAIGNS OF TAFT AND ROOSEVELT?

That Enormous Sum of Money Are Being Spent Is Apparent, and Citizens Have a Right to Learn the Source.

By all means let the house bill compelling full publicity of pre-nomination expenditures of presidential candidates be passed.
Especially in the campaign now on, which holds so many candidates who proclaim their are running in response to the people's demand, it is desirable to know who is putting up the sinews of war.
The cost of the Roosevelt campaign in New York county was over $50,000, or nearly four dollars a vote. And he lost out at that. A short time ago the total cost of his campaign thus far was estimated at $100,000.
If we accept the colonel's interpretation of the significance of his candidacy this money is being spent to permit the people to express their overwhelming desire to nominate him.
All right. Let him spend as much as he likes, if he spends it legitimately. But who is putting up?

Mr. Roosevelt has no million to spend on his campaign, not even the $50,000 which, according to legal record, he dumped into New York county alone. Then who is putting up?
Is it Perkins, Munsey or McCormick, or some other of his trust friends who are boosting the Roosevelt campaign? Or are the plain people parting with their pennies to enjoy the salvation of another Roosevelt administration?
The Taft managers, undoubtedly, are spending money, too. Money has always been spent in these campaigns. The people have a right to know where the Taft money comes from.
But the agents of the president have yet to be charged with "spending money like drunken sailors" as the agents of the colonel in Indianapolis.

It may be recalled at this time that George W. Perkins in 1904 contributed $50,000 to the Roosevelt campaign in behalf of the New York Life Insurance company. He can't do that now, but what he is giving and how he is giving it should be known to the citizens who are asked to vote for Mr. Roosevelt.
If the nation is to have publicity of campaign contributions, it is fully as important that it has them for the primaries and other pre-nomination activity as for the election proper.—Exchange.

Safety Within the Law.

Mr. G. T. Perkins contributed $15,000 to Theodore Roosevelt's New York campaign for delegates, and there were other large contributions, but it is not charged that any of the money was used corruptly. It costs a lot of money to make the kind of a campaign all the presidential candidates are making, and as yet congress has not put any limitations on such expenditures.

Colonel's Costly Campaign.

Commenting on the use of money by the Roosevelt management, Chairman McKinley of the Taft committee said: "When the senate investigated the charges made against Senator Stephenson it found that his expenditures in the campaign before the primary amounted to a little less than two dollars a vote. It costs a lot of money to make the kind of a campaign in the New York primaries, which elected delegates to the national convention, required the expenditure of four dollars a vote."

Double Burden on the People.

The conclusion reached by the investigators who have been working on the wool schedule is that many of its rates are prohibitive and that the cost of producing wool and woolen goods is higher in the United States than in any other country. Naturally, the consumer carries a burden caused in part by actual differences in the necessary conditions of production, and in part the result of excessive tariff barriers against the importation of wool and woolens.

THE SUBSTITUTE.

Privilege of the Democratic Party is to Restore a Safe and Sane Government.

The beginning of the Roosevelt legend is interesting. Back in the eighties an American magazine published a series of articles on ranch life and the hunting trail. Illustrated by the pencil of the late Fred Remington and signed by a name famous in the history both of New York politics and western steamboating—Roosevelt. Later it was reported that a new Daniel had come to judgment in the political arena of New York. Then came the Spanish-American war and the famous regiment—Roosevelt. The assassination of McKinley occurred at a strategic moment, when American politics was about to take a new turn and crystallize about either an idea or a person. Roosevelt's dramatic entrance into the White House turned the scale. An era of personal government began. There is something wrong with the succession, however. Taft is to Roosevelt what Mazzini was to Richelieu. The founder of the dynasty has decided to govern more. The vicerey the Democrats played out. Meanwhile the Democratic party, through James C. Clark, Underwood, Wilson, Harmon and others, has redirected the attention of the country to the power of ideas in politics. It is our guess that personal government is doomed and that soon the Roosevelt and Cunnings will be numbered among the popular idols which have lost their sanctity.—St. Louis Republic.

Rising Moral Standards.

In the stimulus of little volume, "The Moral and Religious Challenge of Our Times," President H. C. King of Oberlin college discusses as one of the significant national changes, "the rapidly rising moral standards of the United States in business, industrial and political life."
There can be no doubt, he says, that the business world now repudiates methods that would have been accepted as a matter of course twenty-five years ago, and that in politics there is "a growing responsibility to the whole people." He continues:
"The significant element in the re-voicing of 'Cannons' lies just here. It is the repudiation of the old theory that legislation is to be the outcome of a compromise of various corporate or local interests. Instead of being determined by a clear view of the interests of the people as a whole."
That is why the people revolted against the manner in which the Payne-Aldrich tariff act was framed, and it explains the uprising which has bewildered the old school of politicians who could see nothing out of the way in legislating for the special interests.

Working of the Anti-Trust Law.

The government's brief in the Standard Oil suit showed that John D. Rockefeller personally held 24,992 shares in the Standard Oil company. Since the government won the suit and the company was dissolved the market price of the stock has risen $350 per share, adding thereby $86,692,200 to Mr. Rockefeller's fortune. The anti-trust law is a great success.

Ever the Friend of the Trusts.

If Mr. Roosevelt had been president for the last four years we may be sure there would have been no prosecution of the harvester trust. Mr. Roosevelt stopped that once before and has now been the sugar trust would not have been compelled to disgorge its thefts. Mr. Roosevelt knew about them, but would not see them when in office. And the steel corporation would still receive the presidential benediction for its every act.

Will Be in Harmony Once.

It was only a few days ago that Mr. Taft's manager declared that only a loser squealed, and now he is making a very queer noise for a winner. On the other side, the squealers of a few days ago are now imitating the rooster. They will squeal a duet at Chicago.

Just as we had almost forgotten

about it, the announcement comes from Washington that there is to be a vigorous probe of the money trust. When?

Not the Way to Win.

As a vituperator Colonel Roosevelt is scoring the hit of his career. But it is not the sort of hit to increase his popularity or to help along his struggle for the nomination. The American people, as a rule, are more disgusted than impressed with abuse instead of argument.

BACK TO THE RIGHT CHANNEL

Privilege of the Democratic Party is to Restore a Safe and Sane Government.

The beginning of the Roosevelt legend is interesting. Back in the eighties an American magazine published a series of articles on ranch life and the hunting trail. Illustrated by the pencil of the late Fred Remington and signed by a name famous in the history both of New York politics and western steamboating—Roosevelt. Later it was reported that a new Daniel had come to judgment in the political arena of New York. Then came the Spanish-American war and the famous regiment—Roosevelt. The assassination of McKinley occurred at a strategic moment, when American politics was about to take a new turn and crystallize about either an idea or a person. Roosevelt's dramatic entrance into the White House turned the scale. An era of personal government began. There is something wrong with the succession, however. Taft is to Roosevelt what Mazzini was to Richelieu. The founder of the dynasty has decided to govern more. The vicerey the Democrats played out. Meanwhile the Democratic party, through James C. Clark, Underwood, Wilson, Harmon and others, has redirected the attention of the country to the power of ideas in politics. It is our guess that personal government is doomed and that soon the Roosevelt and Cunnings will be numbered among the popular idols which have lost their sanctity.—St. Louis Republic.

Rising Moral Standards.

In the stimulus of little volume, "The Moral and Religious Challenge of Our Times," President H. C. King of Oberlin college discusses as one of the significant national changes, "the rapidly rising moral standards of the United States in business, industrial and political life."
There can be no doubt, he says, that the business world now repudiates methods that would have been accepted as a matter of course twenty-five years ago, and that in politics there is "a growing responsibility to the whole people." He continues:
"The significant element in the re-voicing of 'Cannons' lies just here. It is the repudiation of the old theory that legislation is to be the outcome of a compromise of various corporate or local interests. Instead of being determined by a clear view of the interests of the people as a whole."
That is why the people revolted against the manner in which the Payne-Aldrich tariff act was framed, and it explains the uprising which has bewildered the old school of politicians who could see nothing out of the way in legislating for the special interests.

Working of the Anti-Trust Law.

The government's brief in the Standard Oil suit showed that John D. Rockefeller personally held 24,992 shares in the Standard Oil company. Since the government won the suit and the company was dissolved the market price of the stock has risen $350 per share, adding thereby $86,692,200 to Mr. Rockefeller's fortune. The anti-trust law is a great success.

Ever the Friend of the Trusts.

If Mr. Roosevelt had been president for the last four years we may be sure there would have been no prosecution of the harvester trust. Mr. Roosevelt stopped that once before and has now been the sugar trust would not have been compelled to disgorge its thefts. Mr. Roosevelt knew about them, but would not see them when in office. And the steel corporation would still receive the presidential benediction for its every act.

Will Be in Harmony Once.

It was only a few days ago that Mr. Taft's manager declared that only a loser squealed, and now he is making a very queer noise for a winner. On the other side, the squealers of a few days ago are now imitating the rooster. They will squeal a duet at Chicago.

Just as we had almost forgotten

about it, the announcement comes from Washington that there is to be a vigorous probe of the money trust. When?

Not the Way to Win.

As a vituperator Colonel Roosevelt is scoring the hit of his career. But it is not the sort of hit to increase his popularity or to help along his struggle for the nomination. The American people, as a rule, are more disgusted than impressed with abuse instead of argument.

NO MORE OF THAT MEDICINE

Mary Had Her Mind Made Up as to Further Doses of Unquenchable Compound.

A Yonkers, N. Y., physician had a negro cook who was a chronic complainer. "One day she came in groaning with a misery in her side and the doctor offered to prescribe for her. He went to the dining room, poured out a spoonful of game sauce, stirred in some English mustard and sprinkled on some cayenne pepper, and handed the dose to the sufferer, telling her to take it down at once. It was two weeks or more before Mary turned up with a new pain. Her employer offered to mix her another dose of his medicine.

"No, sir," said Mary, firmly. "I'm much obliged to you, doctor, but I've done got my mind made up never again to drink nothing 'what water won't squench.'"—Saturday Evening Post.

ERUPTION COVERED BODY

"Three years ago this winter I had a breaking out that covered my whole body. It itched so it seemed as if I should go crazy. It first came out in little pimples on my back and spread till it covered my whole body and limbs down to my knees, also my arms down to my elbows. I scratched it and made sores, and the terrible itching and burning kept me from sleeping. I tried several remedies all to no purpose. Then I concluded to try the Cuticura Remedies. I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, also the Resolvent, for about four months, and they completely cured me of eczema. I have had no return of the disease since. I never had a good night's rest after the skin eruption first broke out till I commenced using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I had only used them a few days before I could see they were beginning to heal, and the terrible itching was gone.

"Those that lived in the house at the time I know how I suffered, and how the Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me. I never take a bath without using the Cuticura Soap, and I do not believe there are better remedies for any skin disease than the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Miss Sarah Calkins, Wakegan, Mass., 16, 1911.

Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Didn't Fully Understand.

A New York judge went over to Ireland recently and met the brother of "Tom" Costigan, a well known district leader in one wing of the Democracy. The judge told "Tom's" brother in Ireland all about what a great man "Tom" had become, about his popularity and influence, devoted to politics. The brother, instead of sharing the judge's enthusiasm, looked anxious. "Before you go," said "Tom's" brother, "please satisfy me on one point. Isn't all this attention to politics interfering with my brother's business?"

Having Fun.

The brilliant wit of the Bar looked at the moon-faced farm laborer and winked at his friends and whispered, "Now we'll have some fun."

"Have you been married?" he began.

"Ye-es," stammered the laborer, "once."

"Whom did you marry?"

"A w-woman, sir."

"Come, my good man, of course it was a woman. Did you ever hear of any one marrying a man?"

"Ye-es, sir; my sister did."

What Every Woman Knows.

A Cleveland school teacher writes that she asked her class what was the difference between the expression, "white" and "a time." Nobody seemed to have any ideas on the subject. Finally the light of intelligence was seen to shine in the eyes of one little boy, and the teacher called upon him to save the intellectual honor of the class.

"I know, teacher," he cried eagerly. "When papa says he's going out for a while, mamma says she knows he's going out for a time!"

That's one way of looking at it. Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Tired of It.

The four-year-old had taken his first proof in a gratifying manner, had admitted his fault, and stood sweetly for pardon. Encouraged by his receptive attitude, his mother ventured to add a few general ethical truths; but with the first hint of transition from the concrete to the abstract a mild resentment dawned in his eyes.

"Mother," he cried in a respectful but firmly "when is this conversation going to stop?"—Harper's Bazar.

Paradise Lost.

"Blingley, why does Oldboy refuse to speak to you? You used to be great friends."

"Yes, when we were bachelors; but he's married now."

"And what difference does that make?"

"Well, the fact is, I made him a handsome wedding present of a book, and he hasn't spoken to me since."

"What was the book?"

"Paradise Lost."

FRED BEELL INJURED IN BOUT WITH BOHEMIAN
Chicago, Ill., May 9.—Fred Beell, the crack little Wisconsin wrestler, today is suffering from torn ligaments in his right shoulder, the result of his wrestling match with Smogaj in Sokol-Chicago hall last night. For thirty minutes the giant Bohemian and Beell tugged away, Beell showing the cleaner work. Growing angry because of his failure to handle the speedy and nimble little Beell, Smogaj lost his cool and rushed Beell into the chairs on the stage. When the referee brought them back to the center of the mat Beell could not continue. A physician was called and ordered Beell to quit. Under the agreement Smogaj wins the match, but Beell demands a return go.

Wagoner Record Horrible: Saturday night Deputy State Game Warden J. W. Foster of this city and W. A. Gals of Vesper went to the town of Day and investigated a report of illegal fishing in a small tributary of the Little Eau Pateau river, the only trout stream in that vicinity. As a result five men were confiscated and Nick Zengstorf, Theo. Koggenbauer, Mathias Petre and John E. Thim were notified to appear before Justice R. N. Lauer in this city on Tuesday to answer to charges of having netted fish in that stream. They did not appear and warrants were issued. The four men were arrested by Under-sheriff Abraham and brought into court late yesterday afternoon. Each pleaded guilty to the offense and a fine of $25.00 and costs was assessed against each. All have made arrangements to pay.

This morning Deputies Foster and Gals arrested Frank Wanta of Oulton on a similar charge, his offense being alleged to have occurred at Pike Lake on the night of April 30. Wanta made a clean breast of the whole affair and was also fined $25.00 and costs.

Ed. Kneek of Oulton was arrested this morning on a charge of having fished illegally with a net in the inland waters of the state. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Justice Lauer, claiming the wrong lake was named in the complaint, but later thought better of it and changed his plea to guilty. He was fined $25.00 and costs.

KELLNER
Dr. J. W. Upright, the veterinarian, made a professional call in our neighborhood last week. This doctor has his new and up-to-date office located in what is known as the Hannan barn back of Weisel's store.

U. Helko Jr. and wife moved to your city where they will make their future home. Mr. Helko is employed by John Rasmussen the cement man.

The new married couple Mr. and Mrs. B. Miller will also make their home in your city. Mr. Miller is employed as blacksmith at the L. Goodness shop.

Rudolph Timm and family have moved into the J. Napsle house. We wonder if Mr. Napsle has got his potatoes sold.

The Henry Holm farm was recently sold to parties from Illinois. They will take possession of it at once.

Rev. A. Krusche was in your city the fore part of the week on business. Albert Sanger of Port Edwards has disposed of his property there and will move onto his farm south of Kellner.

Martin Helko and wife spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. U. Voight.

Our new creamery is an enterprising institution. Mr. Ward reports that he has sixty patrons and handles over 1,000 pounds of cream a week. We all wish him all kinds of success in his undertaking.

G. H. Munroe is the owner of a new horse which he purchased in your city recently.

J. Miller and wife of Wild Rose were in our burg last week for a few days.

A special meeting will be held at the Lutheran church next Sunday regarding the parsonage matter.

The marriage of Reinhard Miller to Ella Timm took place at the Lutheran church last Wednesday. Rev. A. Krusche performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by the Misses Lizzie Dittmann and Della Nelson and Messrs J. Miller a brother of the groom and W. Rickman acted as best men.

Mrs. Albert Myer and Mrs. E. Murphy departed for Chicago where they will visit with friends and relatives for some time.

Fred Timm attended the wedding of his sister Ella last week. Mr. Timm is located at Milwaukee and reports everything fine all with him.

Look Around and Don't Get Stuck.
There's a difference in the quality of lumber and in prices, too, and unless you look around a bit before placing your bill for lumber, well, whatever it is you are going to build, you're mighty apt to get stuck.
What's the use of taking chances, any way? We'll be only too glad to make you an estimate on whatever you want in lumber or any kind of building material, and if we can't prove that it's to your advantage to buy from us, then you can go elsewhere. But get our figures, anyway.

If You Were an Expert, What Car Would You Buy
The time has passed when automobiles can be sold to you on their appearance or claims. This is a day when you and every purchaser must be shown what the car for which you pay your money will actually perform; what it will do. Beware of an automobile salesman who attempts to beguile you with a pleasing story. Tell him to show the goods and prove to you that his cars are worth the money. Find out whether his car is a real car or only an assembled automobile built to sell.
You have a right to your money's worth, but it is up to you to see that you get it. Deeper than all appearances, there are a few expert tests which ought to be applied to every car.
Who makes the car? Is it an assembled car or made from top to bottom by one manufacturer? What kind of a guarantee is on it? Does the manufacturer respect his own product with a real guarantee, or does he want you to take the chance? What do parts cost you and how conveniently can you get them? How many cars of this make are in service and how many are giving satisfaction? Questions like these go deep in to the heart of the case, and if you put them rigorously upon any car you will find out with a certainty whether or not that car is worth its price.
We are selling Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars because we know that, dollar for dollar, there equal is not sold in the market today. The records of many thousands of cars in all kinds of service have convinced us absolutely. Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars are built to run, and because they run they sell. If we cannot prove to you under the most searching test that Studebaker cars are absolutely the best automobile values in the market, we do not want your business; but we can prove it, and your neighbors who drive these cars will tell you the same thing.
Be an expert when it comes to buying a car. You can, by getting from us some further ideas on real tests of an automobile. Write us because we have something new to tell you which you ought to know, whatever car you have in mind.

NEWS FROM NEARBY PLACES.

Goodbye to the blueberry if an experiment which will be made in Grant county proves a success. When Louis Palm, of Washburn, returned from Sweden he brought with him about 2,000 plants of a new berry which he will plant on his farm and attempt to make a success of their cultivation. They are called the Lingon berry and grow very similar to the native blueberry, and are claimed to be far superior as table fruit. It is said by experienced gardeners in Sweden that the climate in this section of the country is all right for the growth of the berry and a practical test will be made. —Tribune Journal.

Wausau Record Herald:—Saturday night Deputy State Game Warden J. W. Foster of this city and W. A. Cole of Vesper went to the town of Day and investigated a report of illegal fishing in a small tributary of the Little Eau Claire river, the only trout stream in that vicinity. As a result five men were contacted and Nick Zinghina, Theo. Koggenbauer, Mathias Patrik and John E. Thun were notified to appear before Justice R. N. Larson in this city on Tuesday to answer to charges of having netted fish in that stream. They did not go and warrants were issued. The four men were arrested by Under-Sheriff Abraham and brought into court late yesterday afternoon. Each pleaded guilty to the offense and a fine of $25.00 and costs was assessed against each. All have made arrangements to pay.

This morning Deputies Foster and Cole arrested Frank Waata of Callon on a similar charge, his offense being alleged to have occurred at Pike Lake on the night of April 30. Waata made a clean breast of the whole affair and was also fined $25.00 and costs.

Ed. Klink of Callon was arrested this forenoon on a charge of having fished illegally with a net in the turbulent waters of the state. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Justice Larson, claiming the wrong lake was named in the complaint, but later thought better of it and changed his plea to guilty. He was fined $25.00 and costs.

FRED BEELL INJURED IN BOUT WITH BOHEMIAN

Chicago, Ill., May 9.—Fred Beell, the crack little Wisconsin wrestler, today is suffering from torn ligaments in his right shoulder, the result of his wrestling match with Smekal in Sokol-Ollingo hall last night. For thirty minutes the giant Bohemian and Beell tugged away. Fradlin showing the cleaner work. Growing angry because of his failure to handle the speedy and nimble little Beell, Smekal lost his goat and rushed Fred into the chairs on the stage. When the referee brought them back to the center of the mat Beell could not continue. A physician was called and ordered Beell to quit. Under the agreement Smekal wins the match, but Beell demands a return go.

Boys and Girls!

What are you going to do when you grow up?

Are you going to be your own boss or work for someone else?

Will you be independent and have your own home, or will you be one of the many who just scrape along and manage to make both ends meet?

It all depends on you.

Nearly all of the great men of this country began to prepare for success when they were young like you.

The first step is to save what you earn and are given. The folks at home will be glad to help you.

Then when the time comes for you to go to college, or start out for yourself, you will be equipped for the fight.

Every penny you save now puts you that much ahead of the boy and girl who does not save.

Children's accounts are always welcome at this bank, no matter how small.

Look Around and Don't Get Stuck.

There's a difference in the quality of lumber—and in prices, too—and unless you look around a bit before placing your bill for that new—well, whatever it is you are going to build—you're mighty apt to get stuck.

What's the use of taking chances, any way? We'll be only too glad to make you an estimate in whatever you want in lumber or any kind of building material, and if we can't prove that it's to your advantage to buy from us, then you can go elsewhere. But get our figures, anyway.
